"Daragh has a strong track record of advising the industry's leading organizations and working closely with customers to ensure they get the maximum return from their investment in technology in the shortest possible time," said Vishnu R Dusad, CEO, Nucleus Software. "Daragh's deep experience in financial services application software and proven ability to deliver results will help Nucleus Software to continue to grow worldwide. I am confident Daragh's contribution will be instrumental in helping us drive the business impacts our customers demand".

"I am delighted to join the Nucleus Software team, and I'm excited about the possibilities that lie ahead of us," said Daragh O'Byrne. "For three decades Nucleus Software has been helping some of the world's leading financial institutions use technology to sharpen their competitive edge. Today, we are extremely well positioned, with a unique combination of deep business expertise and market leading solutions in lending and transaction banking, backed by a relentless focus on customer success. I look forward to working with the entire Nucleus Software team to share the benefits our solutions bring to organisations worldwide."

Daragh has an extensive experience in the Financial Services application software sector. Prior to joining Nucleus Software he worked, for more than 20 years, with major organizations, including Misys and BPC Banking Technologies. Daragh joins Nucleus Software to lead the Marketing and Alliance function and to create a world class marketing operation. Nucleus Software is currently in a significant expansion phase aimed at becoming the largest provider of lending and transaction banking solutions worldwide. Having recently launched brand new, cloud-ready solutions built on the latest technology, it is now investing in expanding across the world.
