ब्याज दर में और कटौती की गुंजाइश सीमित: रजनीश

नई दिल्ली, भाषा। भारतीय स्टेट बैंक (एसबीआई) के चेयरमैन रजनीश कुमार ने कहा कि ब्याज दर में और कटौती की गुंजाइश सीमित है। यह पूछे जाने पर कि ब्याज दर में कटौती का चक्र पूरा हो चुका है, उन्होंने कहा कि ऐसा ही लगता है। कुमार ने कहा, अगर आप बॉन्ड पर रिटर्न को देखें, उसमें हाल में तेजी आयी है। मुझे लगता है कि जमा और कर्ज दोनों के मामले में ब्याज दरों में और कटौती की गुंजाइश सीमित है। जबतक आप जमा पर ब्याज दर में कटौती नहीं करते, कर्ज पर लिये जाने वाले ब्याज में कमी नहीं कर सकते। फिलहाल हम काफी हद तक स्थिर ब्याज दर की स्थिति में हैं। पिछले सप्ताह देश के सबसे बड़ा बैंक एसबीआई ने आवास एवं वाहन कर्ज के लिये ब्याज दर में 0.05 फीसद की कटौती की थी। यह पूछे जाने पर कि सार्वजनिक क्षेत्र के बैंकों में सरकार की तरफ से पूंजी डाले जाने से क्या ब्याज दर में वृद्धि होगी, उन्होंने कहा, इसकी संभावना है।

वायु की गुणवत्ता खराब आईटी ईटी क्षेत्र में आने वाले वर्ष नियुक्तियां होंगी धीमी: बालकृष्णन

नई दिल्ली ■ भाषा/डेस्क
राष्ट्रीय राजधानी दिल्ली में वायु की गुणवत्ता बुरी तरह प्रभावित होने के बाद एयर प्यूरीफायर का बाजार गरमा गया है। हवा खराब होने से ग्राहक आनन-फानन में एयर प्यूरीफायर खरीद रहे हैं और कंपनियां इस मौके का लाभ उठाते हुए अपनी बिक्री में बढोतरी की उम्मीद कर रही हैं।

हालांकि प्रदूषण की हालत ऐसी है कि चिकित्सकों को भी इस तरह के उत्पादों के प्रभावी होने का शक है।

The Unchahar tragedy points to an unforgivably lax safety protocol

The boiler explosion at NTPC's Unchahar power plant in Rae Bareilly underscores the importance of inspections and protocols for hazardous industrial operations. It has cost at least 32 lives and caused severe injuries to scores of personnel. High pressure boilers are hazardous pieces of equipment, which are strictly regulated with special laws. In fact, the basic objective of the Indian Boilers Act, 1923 is to ensure the safety of life and protection of property by mandating uniform standards in the quality and upkeep of these units.

The global community cannot afford to ignore Myanmar's treatment of the Rohingya Nearly three months after violence escalated against the Rohingya in Myanmar's Rakhine State, leading to the exodus of more than half a million to neighbouring Bangladesh, State Counsellor Aung San Suu Kyi finally visited the region. By all accounts, Ms. Suu Kyi had little more than platitudes to offer and her words showed no recognition that what transpired is a "textbook example of ethnic cleansing", as the UN Human Rights chief put it.

CBI gets 3 days to 'interview' boy, lawyers seek proof

The probe into the murder of Class 2 student Pradhyumn Thakur, inside the Bhondsi campus of Ryan International School, took an unexpected turn on Wednesday after the CBI produced a Class XI student of the same school as an accused before the Gurgaon juvenile court, which sent the boy to a correction home for three days.

CBI has not produced anything to show his involvement in the case," said Sharma. The father of the accused, himself a lawyer and a member of Gurgaon district bar association, said, "My son is innocent."

We've not witnessed any change in his (Class XI student) behaviour since the day of murder - A RELATIVE had scored over 80% marks in the Class X board exam. "We've not witnessed any change in his behaviour since the day of the murder. He was leading a normal life," he said, adding he was the one who had first spotted Pradhyumn lying in the bathroom floor and informed school staff.

A senior brought poison to school, claim two students

Two students of Ryan International School, Bhondsi, on Wednesday alleged a student of the school's senior wing had brought a bottle of poison to school in an alleged attempt to defer the half-yearly exam and a parent-teacher meeting (PTM). This was before Pradhyumn Thakur was murdered on September 8.

students questioned the boy, he confessed that he was carrying poison in the bottle and wanted the exams to be postponed. He thought that the management would declare a holiday, if any untoward incident happens on the school premises," the student said.

Class 11 student said she too had heard about the incident. "The student reportedly added poison to water and offered it to his classmates. My son told me. He even told students poisoned water would kill someone and the PTM would be deferred. Other students thought it was just a prank."

It just keeps getting worse, city now staring at emergency

There was no respite on Wednesday from the dystopic smog that had descended on the city the previous day. The air quality in fact worsened, with the average air quality index (AQI) logging 478, just 22 points below the point on the AQI scale when a public the normal of 60 micrograms per cubic metre, with Delhi Technological University (DTU) recording an alarming 999. Faridabad and Noida also had severe pollution, with AQI levels there reading 472 and 469, respectively.

will be calm in the morning and visibility will likely remain poor." Peak concentration of tiny, respirable PM2.5 pollutants was on an average between 13 and 15 times the national 24-hour safe standard of 60 micrograms per cubic metres on Wednesday.

health emergency is indicated. People complained of shortness of breath, burning eyes and runny noses, and many felt suffocated by the grey smoggy canopy over the city.

is likely to remain the same for at least another 24 hours. This means Delhi will suffer another day of severely poor air quality on Thursday. "We are seeing the effects of the westerlies and easterlies, one bringing moisture and the other bringing pollutants. It is currently the phase when particles accumulate, and there is likely to be further deterioration," explained Dipankar Saha, head of CPCB's air laboratory.

Stung, Gurgaon cops say we got 12 days, CBI had 2 months

The new turn in the Pradhyumn Thakur murder case, in which CBI on Wednesday implicated a Class 11 student of Ryan International School, has left Gurgaon police red-faced, after they had boldly claimed to have conclusively solved the case the same day as the murder by arresting school bus conductor Ashok Kumar.

The CBI charge challenges Gurgaon police's hasty arrest of Ashok Kumar, who also confessed to the crime before news reporters, an act that his lawyer and family claimed was the result of torture. "When we questioned the conductor, his statements kept changing with every session, and never matched with sequence of events. The teenage accused, too, kept switching statements, so we tracked him on CCTV, call records and other forensic evidence, and found he had planned a murder to get the exams and PTM cancelled. He had told his friends there was no need to prepare for exams as it would get cancelled," said a CBI investigator.

CBI claimed they conducted a thorough probe, as part of which, they questioned 125 people, including school staff and students. What helped them zero in on the teenage accused was his cell phone call records. Sources claimed the first mistake Gurgaon police made in their botched probe was in analysing CCTV video footage. They rested their entire probe on the part showing Kumar entering the restroom and Pradhyumn stumbling out, ignoring later visuals showing five other people were near the toilet during the time period. In an interview published in TOI on September 21, police commissioner Sandeep Khirwar had claimed they got the right man and were ready to file a chargesheet. The police theory, that Kumar was masturbating in the washroom and killed Pradhyumn when the latter caught him in the act, had been met with scepticism even by Pradhyumn's parents. "No one can contradict the investigation done by Haryana Police. I'm sure CBI will also come to the same conclusion," Khirwar had said.

has arrested one more person in the case. The probe is on. It's being done by CBI, so they'll decide. Everything is a matter of investigation." Meanwhile, Pradhyumn's family claimed there could be a bigger conspiracy behind the murder. Sources claimed the CBI is also probing the involvement of a teacher, though there was no official word on that. Conductor's kin to file case against officers Gurgaon: The kin of jailed Ashok Kumar (42) feel vindicated at the CBI's clean chit to the bus conductor, who has been languishing in jail for the past two months on charge of Pradhyumn Thakur's murder. Half the battle won, they are now planning to file a case against the Gurgaon police and demand compensation for implicating Ashok and torturing him to "give a false confessionals statement". Ashok's lawyer Mohit Verma said his main aim right now was to ensure his bail at the earliest. Ashok was picked up by Gurgaon police from Ryan International School at Bhondsi, a few hours after Pradhyumn was found murdered inside a toilet on the campus on September 8. The unusual haste with which the cops had made the arrest and claimed to have cracked the murder mystery had even prompted Pradhyumn's father Barun to question the police investigation and demand a CBI probe. After living with a social stigma and coping with utter penury for the two months at their Ghamroj village home, the family finally heaved a sigh of relief on Wednesday as CBI arrested a Class XI student in connection with the murder.

Junaid's dad sought Rs 2cr, land from accused: Cops

The Haryana Police on Wednesday filed a fresh affidavit in the Punjab and Haryana high court, claiming Jalaluddin Khan, father of 16-year-old Junaid who was stabled to death on a train in June, had asked for Rs 2 crore and 3 acres of land from the accused to settle the case.

Mohinder Singh, DSP (railways), Faridabad, who filed the affidavit on Wednesday, said he came to know about the demand from a "secret informer." The police move came in response to the affidavit of Jalaluddin, denying participation in any panchayat for compromise.

"I was informed by a secret informer about participation of Junaid's father Jalaluddin in the panchayat wherein he raised a demand of Rs 2 crore and 3 acres of land from the accused party for the settlement in the murder case," said the DSP in his affidavit.
