The sugar produced in the current year was 1448340 quintals as against 2323441 quintals in the previous year. The company had also processed 36834 tonnes of raw sugar. Management Discussion and Analysis Report*Indian Sugar Industry

India is ranked second in sugar production and the largest consumer of sugar in the world. About 3 crore agriculturists are engaged in the cultivation of sugarcane and more than 5 lakh people are directly employed in the sugar industry and not less than 5 crore people are indirectly engaged

The installed capacity of the industry is to produce 23 million tonnes of sugar. As one of the most diversified industry it has installed capacity to produce 3540 million Ltrs of alcohol/ethanol and 5000 MW power

The sugar industry with integrated sugar plants (producing sugar alcohol power and bio-fertilizer) presently has an approximate annual turnover of 90000 crores and contributes approximately 13000 crores to Central / State exchequer by way of indirect taxes.

World Sugar Market

The international sugar organization (ISO) estimates the sugar production at 157.160 million tonnes for the season 2009-2010 and the consumption for the same period at 166.585 million tonnes. A summary of world sugar balance for 2009 - 2010 is given in the table below

	2009 - 2010	2008 - 2009
	(mln tonne, raw value)
Production	157.160	152.482
Consumption	166.585	164.153
Surplus / Deficit	9.425	11.671
Import demand	54.281	50.068
Export availability	52.156	50.070
End Stocks	53.068	60.368

Sugar Production - Prices

Indian sugar production estimates are always corrected as the season advances. The estimates which do not compare well with the actuals lead to artificial fluctuation in sugar prices. In January 2010 the sugar production for 2009 - 2010 was estimated at 140 lakh tonnes leading to spurt in prices of sugar. Within a couple of months the estimate of sugar production for the season 2009 - 2010 was revised to 185 lakh tonnes which led to unanticipated decline in sugar prices

The sugar production and economical operations of alcohol power and bio-fertilizer are mainly dependent on the availability of sugarcane. At present the agriculturists have multiple choices of alternate crops and for cultivating sugarcane they have to be paid adequately. The Government's intervention in bringing down the prices of sugar now and then directly result in unattractive prices for sugarcane or non payment of sugarcane dues over a long period of time. In such circumstances sugarcane cultivation is bound to suffer greatly

For payment of remunerative prices to cane growers it is essential that sugar prices are allowed to be market governed and not Government regulated. Unfortunately the Government's intervention by way of increasing the levy quota to 20% from 10% allowing duty free import of white and raw sugar without levy obligation control on stock holdings by traders and exemption from VAT payment and use of release mechanism have forced the prices to fall. The Central Government has also imposed temporary ban on sugar future markets till September 2010

The depletion in free sugar prices has benefited only the MNCs and industrial houses manufacturing soft drinks sweet makers and other industrial users who account for 70% of consumption. Ordinary house hold consumer will never be affected by market governed prices and the budget of household expenses may have an impact of less than 1%

Cane Price

The Central Government has substituted by an ordinance statutory minimum price payable for sugarcane with Fair and Remunerative Price (FRP). FRP for 2009 - 2010 seasons is fixed at Rs 129.84 per quintal linked to 9.5% of sugar recovery with a premium of Rs 1.37 for every 1% increase in recovery

Sugar Season 2009-2010 and 2010 - 2011

The sugar production for the season 2009-2010 is estimated to be 188 Lakh tonnes and prices for sugar are expected to be at depressed levels. Diversified income sources should mitigate the increased cost of production and lower realization of sugar prices

The sugar production for 2010 - 2011 is expected to be around 250 Lakh tonnes

Opportunities

Announcement of attractive cane prices has encouraged farmers to increase the area of sugarcane cultivation. The sugar production is expected to peak by 2010 - 2011. Adequate availability of sugarcane would enable optimizing alcohol/ethanol power and bio fertilizer production

The integrated plants are expected to perform at optimum levels in all segments

Threats

The Government's policy of suppressing the sugar price by artificial means has affected industry performance and overall economy of the industry. As already covered the suppression of sugar price has benefitted only MNCs and industrial houses manufacturing soft drinks sweet makers etc., who consume 70% of the production. Realizing this Government must take steps to de-regulate the industry from all controls

Uncertainty in availability of sugarcane import-export policies of the Central Government continued increase in cost of raw material and lack of mechanised operations in agriculture including harvesting of sugarcane have adverse impact on overall performance

Internal Control Systems and their Adequacy

The areas of operation have been segregated into purchase production marketing and finance. Various checks and controls have been introduced in these areas. The checks and controls are reviewed for improvement in each of these areas on a periodical basis. The checks and controls system in these areas are considered adequate
