MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSISi) INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENTS

The Indian mobile market has been continued to witness rapid increase in its subscriber base over the past few years, largely due to the declining mobile tariffs and availability of low cost handsets in the country. The country saw addition of an average of around 10 Million subscribers per month in its mobile subscriber base. With this, mobile operators in the country are now vying rural India as their next area for growth in the near future.

Over the last few years, India has shown strong economic growth. In Fiscal 2010 the growth rate for India's gross domestic product ("GDP") is estimated to have been 7.44%, and in Fiscal 2009 and 2008, GDP growth is estimated to have been 6.72% and 9.22%, respectively, according to the Central Statistical Organisation ("CSO"). Economic growth is expected to continue into the immediate future with the International Monetary Fund ("IMF") estimating India's real GDP growth at 9.4% in 2010 and 8.4% in 2011 (Source: IMF World Economic Outlook, July 2010). The McKinsey Global Institute estimates that India's real GDP will grow at a combined annual growth rate ("CAGR") of 7.3% from 2005 to 2025.

As India's economy has grown, so too has the spending power of its citizens. Real average household disposable income has roughly doubled since 1985 and a new Indian middle class has emerged, according to The 'Bird of Gold': The Rise of India's Consumer Market, a May 2007 report of the McKinsey Global Institute (the "McKinsey Report").

According to latest study on sector called, "Emerging Rural Mobile Market in India", the mobile market in rural India has significant potential with number of subscribers. The success mantra for rural mobile market in India lies in the operators' service pricing models coupled with the availability of low cost handsets that support affordable access for rural areas. It is forecasted that sales of mobile handsets in rural India will grow at CAGR of around 17% from 2009 to 2012.

ii) OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATSa) Opportunities

According to Gartner's report, after China, India would be fastest growing mobile telephony market in Asia Pacific. Gartner reports expect that the penetration will be driven by an increased focus on rural market, cheap handsets, aggressive promotions and handset bundle offers. The low rural mobile penetration of 2% represents an immense opportunity for cellular players.

The growth in the Indian mobile handset market is likely to be driven by the replacement handset market rather than new user additions. The replacement market is expected to grow from 118 million handsets for the twelve month period ended December 31, 2010, constituting 62.77% of overall Indian mobile handset market, to 359 million handsets for the twelve month period ended December 31, 2014, constituting 89.30% of overall Indian mobile handset market. Furthermore, within the replacement handset market, the medium ASP device market is likely to grow the fastest (Source: Analysys Mason).

India has a user base of over 500 million subscribers across the country with 10 million new users being added every month. Increasing demand from working professionals and consumers looking forward to garner more value from the same device will help the demand for converged devices grow. Also we believe that the identification of specific consumer segments and the provision of customized products and services to such segments will differentiate us from our competitors and increase customer loyalty.

Meanwhile, the company has been working to cover the untapped rural mobile market, which will be the major driver for Indian mobile market in coming years.

b) Threats

The handset industry is fiercely competitive as more and more new players enter the market. Aggressively controlled cost cutting measures taken by the end customers have shifted more focus of the Industry on the entry end segment thus impacting the average revenue per handset. However, it is believed that this impact on the mobile phone industry would be short term as India is expected to witness phenomenal growth in this sector. On the technology front, the delay in the 3G rollout in India has impacted the business opportunity from the high end segment and hence impacting average revenue per handset.

iii) OUTLOOK

The management believes that your Company has the potential to perform even better by expanding aggressively both in its retail and wholesale operations. The Company believes that its human resources are its best assets and employees are being encouraged to come out with innovative ideas and suggest better ways of doing things.

iv) RISKS AND CONCERNS

The Company operates in a globally competitive business environment. With the opening of the Indian economy and competition maintaining its market share is a major challenge. Risk related to changes in Laws and Regulations. Any change in the laws and regulations governing the telecommunication industry could adversely affect the business and financial condition of the Company.

v) INTERNAL CONTROL SYSTEMS AND THEIR ADEQUACY

The Company has appropriate and adequate internal control systems for its business processes at all levels with regard to efficiency of operations, accurate and prompt financial reporting, compliance with applicable laws and regulations etc. The Company continues to regularly evaluate and strengthen its Internal Control Systems to be commensurate with its size and growth.

The Company has in place adequate systems of internal control commensurate with its size and the nature of its operations. These have been benchmarked against best practices and have been designed to provide reasonable assurance with regards to recording and providing reliable financial and operational information, complying with applicable statutes, safeguarding assets from unauthorized use or losses, prevention and detection of fraud, executing transactions with proper authorization and ensuring compliance of corporate policies.

The Company has a well defined delegation of power with authority limits for approving revenue as well as capital expenditure. Processes for formulating and reviewing annual and long term business plans have been laid down and implemented. The internal audit is carried out based on an internal audit plan, which is reviewed each year in consultation with the Statutory Auditors and the Audit Committee. The planning and conduct of internal audit is oriented towards the review of controls in the management of risks and opportunities in the Company's activities. The internal audit process is designed to review the adequacy of internal control checks in the system and covers all significant areas of the Company's operations such as sales, purchases, inventory, debtors, creditors, fixed assets and also their protection against unauthorized use.

The Company has an Audit Committee, which regularly reviews the findings and recommendations of the internal auditors and follows up on the implementation through action taken reports.
