MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

INDUSTRY OUTLOOK

OVERVIEW :

In Financial year 2009-10, there was a financial turmoil across the world and witnessed a tremendous shakeout of the banking and financial sectors. Financial meltdown in the developed world resulted in heightened M&A activity, global consolidation among Tier 1 banking giants and the emergence of new market economies as opportunities for growth in the sector. Now, the global economy is slowly and gradually recovering from the melt down and showing small green shoots of growth therein.

Global Market

The world has learnt its lessons from recession and is actively taking steps to sustain India's advantage and make India's IT industry more resilient to global economic conditions. This optimism is being reflected in all parts of the world. As per NASSCOM, the Indian Software industry grew between 5-7% during the year 2009-10 within the 4-7 percent expansion projected earlier. This strategic positioning is best described by Som Mittal, President, Nasscom, in the Nasscom Strategic Review 2010, "Recognizing that opportunities that lie ahead will be different from the past, the industry has redefined its aspirations for the next decade. It would specifically be focusing on embedding itself deep in customer valuechains, expansion of design services in the manufacturing segment, services and delivery becoming location agnostic and agnostic and building co-existing models."

The cloud as a delivery model is also here to stay, and Indian IT service providers will need to adapt themselves in this new world order. From a growth perspective, the future is still bright and has been impacted by the after effects of recession, witnessed by everyone.

The global ERP software and its related service market (demand perspective) were estimated at USD 557 billion in 2008 an increase of 5.5% over last year. This market is expected to grow at nearly 4.80 percent by 2012 to reach USD 672 billion by that year end as per IDC forecasts. Of the total revenue earned in the segment approximately 40-45 percent is attributed to the cost of development. Consequently, the global market for ERP software and related services (developer's perspective) is estimated at USD 25-26 million and is forecast to cross USD 34 billion by 2010. According to NASSCOM Strategic Review Report 2010, IDC forecasts a cumulative annual growth rate (CAGR) of over 6.21% in world wide IT services and IT enabled services spending and a CAGR of over 18.78% in offshore IT spending for the period 2007-12.

The US and Europe remain the biggest markets for outsourcing software related activities. Majority of the works from this market is being outsourced to destinations in the Asia Pacific region and East Europe.

ARCHANA SOFTWARE LIMITED

Indian Market

Indian Software is creating an identity for itself today in the global marketplace. The combined market for Indian ERP software exports in financial year 2010-11 would reach nearly $ 60 billion. The Indian ERP market is estimated to account for 34% of the domestic IT Industry. The growth in the IT service market is estimated to be around 12% in US $ terms. According to recent NASSCOM figure estimates that India has skilled manpower, all essential ingredients for the growth of ERP Software industry and it estimates that in India, the growth of 13-15% in FY 11 for the export sectors and 15-17% for the Indian Market. Previously, the biggest challenges that the Indian software industry was facing were awareness, skills and manpower development, infrastructure and financial support, which would require industry and government to partner. Now the industry has also enhanced its global workforce, hiring specialized talent in developed markets and building a truly global delivery model.

Further, the year end India Domestic Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Market Top 10 predictions 2010 report by leading ICT market intelligence firm international Data Corporation (IDC) India suggests that important structural changes brought about by the impact of economic slowdown will accelerate a order. This new phase of market growth and development, termed as 'Growth Phase 2.0' is evolving along trends that are quite different from earlier phase, Growth Phase 1.0(2003-06) and Indian ERP software Industry continues to dominate the global market place with 51 percent market share.

As per the findings, the coming years are going to represent a significant shift in terms of business models, service lines, customers and talent structure. There will be increased focus on higher end offerings such as system integration, consulting, business intelligence, knowledge services etc.

The Industry is expected to generate an increasing share of revenues from the untapped SMB segment through improved pay per use business models and platform solutions. It is also expected to acquire domain expertise and near shoring capabilities to further advance India's value proposition as a global outsourcing hub.

Also in the global scenario, there is a huge advent of software companies in China, Korea, Philippines and Singapore. These Countries also have a huge cost advantage like India. Over and above that, the Government in such countries is actively supporting the growth of the Software Industry. However, due to global economic meltdown, companies may reduce or postpone their technology spending. Reduction in spending may result in lower demand and negatively affect our revenues and profitability. According to the World Economic Outlook Update published by International Monetary Fund in April 2010, GDP of US is estimated to contract by 7.8% in calendar 2011.

For the past several years, India has achieved healthy economic growth rates in the range 7.5-8%. The growth has been contributed by robust service sector performance as well as strong manufacturing output. India is being viewed as a key market among the emerging economies. Several multinational IT companies and Indian IT services companies are focusing on the Indian markets. This could affect our growth and profitability.
