01 Chairman's Address

Dear Shareholders,

It gives me great pleasure to report an excellent year for your Company, which saw improved performance across a number of fronts. In FY 2014-15, Pokarna maintained its positive trend of the past few years: Robust sales growth for Granite & Quartz driven by our commitment towards offering the finest and the latest designs for our clients backed by superior quality process.

Before I begin discussing the key operational developments, let me briefly run you through the financial highlights across all our segments namely Granite, Apparels and Quartz. The Granite Division garnered revenues worth ₹ 183 crore as against ₹ 155 crore, growth of 18%, while reporting PBIT of ₹ 47.56 crore as against ₹ 30 crore of previous year FY14. Performance of Apparels Division continued to remain soft, having generated revenues of ₹ 7 crore during the year as against ₹ 14 crore during FY14. Quartz segment reported a strong performance with revenue growth of 120% for the year following revenue and PBIT of ₹ 135.73 crore and ₹ 31.63 crore.

Your Company's passion for producing the best stone surfaces has resulted in developing a strong brand connect with its customers across globe. Further, the Company's ability in manufacturing quality products across price-point, has enabled it to become a strong player in the industry. It is this fusion of passion and capability that has empowered us to meet our goals even during challenging times.

Knowing that innovation is core to the businesses success, your Company undertakes the necessary measures towards strengthening its R&D capabilities with a mission to develop top quality design and optimize the cost efficiencies of our manufacturing processes. Further, India especially, Andhra Pradesh and Telangana being home to some of the best stone quarries offers an attractive cost benefit to the Company by offering easy access to raw material of preeminent quality.

Your Company is also undertaking steps towards widening its presence and improving its brand visibility across its existing and new targeted markets. We are working towards designing and implementing a prudent marketing strategy, focused on meeting the interest of all participants in the eco-system ranging from fabricators, developers, contractors, kitchen retailers, builders, architects and designers and not restricting it to end-users alone. Further, the Company, in line with requisite laws, is also engaging with the investment community in an endeavor towards enhancing understanding and visibility of Pokarna's business. Lastly, I believe that it is the consistently improving performance of the Company which will help strengthen its perception in the eyes of the business and investment community.

Your Company is taking steps towards widening and strengthening its Quartz surface distribution reach. Our agreement with Dekker Zevenhuizen B.V for distribution of captive brand during the year is amongst the many steps taken by us towards improving the brand accessibility besides firming up its depth in the market. Pokarna is striving towards creating a healthy mix of owned and third party distributors across key regions to help develop its business.

I would also like to take this opportunity to highlight our commitment towards protecting and safeguarding the environment. Your Company takes utmost efforts towards ensuring minimum impact. The Company rigorously scrutinizes its production process from a health, safety and environmental point of view. It is such dedication which has resulted in your Subsidiary Company being the first Quartz surfaces manufacturer in the country to have been awarded the GREENGUARD and GREENGUARD GOLD certification.

The future is bright. Engineered stone or Quartz is increasingly becoming the material of choice in developed markets and is also gaining traction in relatively nascent markets like India. Our Granite business too continues to grow steadily. I believe this is a reflection of the strong expertise we have built of this material and the markets. I look forward to continued future growth.

Lastly, I would like to thank you all our employees, who have played a key role in Company's performance. I would also like to thank our business partners, vendors and other business associates. Finally I would like to thank all our shareholders for their unrelenting support.

Yours sincerely,

Gautam Chand Jain

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT

Global growth continued to remain weak during 2014-15 owing to the protracted slowdown across developed and emerging nations. Performance of major economies barring US and UK remained under pressure despite functioning in a benign interest rate environment given the presence of multiple headwinds such as falling commodity prices, weak world trade and political uncertainties. Japanese economy also sputtered following muted consumption and exports, underscoring the challenges facing the government despite deploying ultra-accommodative monetary policy.

Performance of emerging economies was impacted by political uncertainties, domestic policy tightening, and supply-side constraints. Chinese economy clocked its slowest pace in over two decade affected by declining property prices and companies and local governments finding it difficult to operate under heavy debt burden, in turn forcing the government to implement growth driving measures to arrest further contraction.

Indian economy on the other hand, benefited significantly from the falling crude prices, as softening of energy prices helped restore and strengthen the country's fiscal deficit besides curbing worries on high inflation. Moderation in oil prices also provided the central bank much needed elbow room for lowering the interest rates in turn bringing down the cost of capital. In addition, the implementation of structural reforms by the government also helped brighten the country's future growth prospects. By undertaking steps towards reduce red tape, shrinking the role of government, deregulating key parts of the economy and improving infrastructure facilities the government has been able to alter the nation's image in the eyes of the global investors and rating agencies which had earlier perceived India as being one amongst the fragile five economies. Indian economy is expected to accelerate and emerge as the fastest growing nation following the government's efforts towards making the economy more vibrant and efficient. International Monetary Fund expects the Indian economy to overtake China as the fastest growing emerging economy in 2015-16 by clocking a growth rate of 7.5 per cent.

Indian Stone Industry –

Indian stone industry has experienced significant transformation over the years. Despite being unorganized and fragmented the industry has been growing 15-20 percent annually even during the downturn in fiscal 2008-09 and 2009-10 aided mainly by strong domestic and international demand. Middle East, Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS) and South-East Asia are amongst the many regions wherein demand for designer Indian stone remains high.

India accounts for 25 per cent of the total reserves of marble, granite and stone slate. The country also possesses 1,619 million cubic metres of deposit, comprising 160 shades of stone. However, despite strong performance in the past, current utilization remains marginal in turn highlighting the huge opportunity for further growth.

In terms of quantity of material exported, the stone industry ranks second only to iron ore, albeit in different form, given the major proportion of it being in the form of value added and not the crude and indigenous form associated with the former. Exports comprises of tiles, surface plates, building slabs and cut-to-size stones. India is also amongst the few countries that deliver branded stone – be it marble, granite or sandstone. However, despite the huge potential, factors such as archaic policies, shutting down of quarries, and inordinate delays prevent the smooth functioning of the sector thereby restricting its growth. Further, heightened competition from countries like China is also poses threat to the country's long term competitiveness.

China has built its strength over the years and now stands as the largest player in the stone industry. The country with ~ 34.3% of the total value of world exports in 2013 was the leader in terms of market share in the natural stone industry. China's higher share in the world trade stems from its strategy of focusing on exporting value-added finished products produced from locally sourced material or imported raw material played a crucial role in increasing the value of its exports. The country post processing the imported raw blocks exports the finished products to most of the leading markets. Sizeable proportion of China's natural stone is exported to European region. China has reduced India's once dominant position in Japanese market and now controls almost ~98% share of the region.

All India Granites and Stone Association (AIGSA), has requested for the implementation of following measures for preserving the country's attractiveness and competitiveness –

- Granite has to be declared as major mineral instead of minor mineral
- Free Import of Granite & Marble blocks
- More mining leases have to be in place; old policies need to be looked at afresh; running quarries have to be protected
- Support from the Government in terms of ensuring sufficient material to the industry
- Liberalizing EXIM policy for enabling people to participate in the process and strengthen the sector with work required to meet the demands of the industry for stone

Source - <http://goo.gl/pPx44A>

The Central government at present has put total restriction on the import of granite blocks while permitting import of marble blocks only up to six lakh tonnes. Such provisions are impairing industry's growth.

Granite –

India is home to some of the best quality dimensional stones available across the globe. Endowed with vast reserves and diversities of almost every conceivable natural stone namely granite, marble, sandstone, limestone, quartz etc., the country is the third largest natural stone manufacturer in the world. Of the 300 varieties of granite present in the world market, India supplies about 200, reflecting the availability of wide array of color, texture and structure in the country.

India produces more than 27 percent of the overall stone production in the world and exports over 11 percent of the world's stone exports.

As per Ministry of Mines report (January 2015), the country has an estimated 46,230 million cu. m of granite resources. The deposits of natural stones are situated across the length and breadth of the country with maximum concentration in states such as Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Karnataka, Rajasthan and Odisha.

In terms of exports, the country shipped granite blocks worth ₹ 12,047 crore in 2013-14 as against ₹ 9,766 crore in the previous year a growth of 23 percent over its previous year. The growth was primarily value led as volumes remained more or less stable during the period. Granite and products, exported mainly as either raw blocks or after cutting and polishing constituted majority of the exports revenue, followed by other stones and products, marbles and slate stone. While Granite was exported to China and European countries, finished marbles was mainly shipped to Japan.

Demand for the product continues to remain strong aided equally by improving domestic and commercial constructions. While, the primary demand for granite is for flooring and kitchen countertops, it is also used for gravestone segment which has a large export market.

Despite impressive growth, presence of inadequate infrastructure facilities, inconsistent and contradictory leasing policies and dearth of export oriented policies are curbing the growth of the segment. The Federation of Indian Granite and Stone Industry (FIGSI) is urging the government to bring granite under "major" mineral category as it will help lower the royalty outgo on mining and enhance the segment's competitiveness. The quarrying industry is expected to grow rapidly following the acceptance of proposal as the same will ensure rationalization and result in uniform implementation of granite policies.

Home owners' preference for granite stems from its attractive and durability feature making it one of the favored surfaces to be used in flooring and countertops. Of all the tile types, Natural stone / granite is projected to grow most rapidly through 2017 through US overtaking porcelain, expected to be the second largest type in area demand terms by 2017.

US demand for decorative tile is forecast to rise 6.7 percent per year through 2017, reaching 3.2 billion square feet. Gains can be attributed to the country's improving housing and commercial construction spending. The new housing market is expected to show robust demand as housing completions grow from their low 2012 base.

Tile demand in non-residential building construction applications will be spurred by strong growth in office and commercial construction spending and increasing use of tile as a low-cost, low-maintenance flooring alternative to carpets and rugs.

Domestic Export mix for the year stood at 24:76 as against 31:69 during last year. Export revenue for the segment stood at ₹ 139.15 crore as against ₹ 107.00 crore, representing a growth of 30.45%. US market with a share of 31.10% continues to remain high in the overall exports pie, followed by Asia and Europe.

Further, your Company is also taking measures towards increasing the dependency on procuring raw materials from captive quarries, and as such has made several applications for grant for new mining lease(s) in different states.

Quartz / Engineered Stone –

Quartz is the most commonly found material on the surface of the earth. Besides hardness, it also possesses superior abrasive properties and is highly chemical resistant. Engineered quartz surfaces, comprising of 93 percent quartz particles and 7 percent binding resins and additives are recognized for their durability, strength, stain and heat resistance qualities. Such attributes make it near maintenance free product thus helping it score over other surfaces namely granite, which can more easily be stained or scratched. Quartz is also a nonporous material, which restricts the growth of mold, mildew, or bacteria.

It is on account of such factors that Consumer Reports Magazine has rated quartz as the top performer amongst countertop materials such as granite, ceramic tile, stainless steel, laminate, marble, limestone, and concrete when it came to resisting prime kitchen hazards such as stains, heat and scratches.

In addition to its superior exterior qualities, the initial malleable property of quartz enables flexibility and innovation in design, style, textures and production process as well as ease of fabrication.

While the usages of natural stones like granite, marble, soapstone for countertops were dominant in the past, there has been a visible shift in favor of quartz over the past decade. The migration has resulted in the product becoming the fastest growing material to be used in the countertop industry, gradually eating into the share of other materials, such as granite, manufactured solid surfaces and laminate.

Quartz is the Fastest Growing Category in a $81bn Market

Between 1999 and 2014, global engineered quartz sales to end-consumers grew at a compound annual growth rate of 15.7% compared to a 4.4% compound annual growth rate in total global countertop sales to end-consumers during the same period.

Quartz penetration in key markets (For the year ended December 31)

2014 Quartz Share of Countertop Market by Region (Volume)

The trend is expected to remain strong in the future, given the greater awareness and acceptance level of the product across its key markets.

While the product has attained different life cycle stage across these markets the common theme of rising usage and acceptability is clearly visible across these regions. While Australia, Europe, Israel are matured market for engineered stone the product is still at a nascent stage in America and Canada region. The rise of the quartz is partially also attributable to its wider applicability varying from kitchen countertops, bathroom countertops, bar, floor and exterior walls and so on.

From single digit share in USA to more than eighty percent usage in market like Israel, quartz is developing as a preferred choice for customers and developers. Granite and other solid surfaces continue to dominate the US countertops market presently, with even laminate scoring over quartz.

Despite, increasing usage, Quartz accounts for just 8% of all countertops in America, resulting in one of the least penetrated developed markets in the world. The figure pales when compared with Australia and Europe wherein the share of the product ranges from 30% to 50%.

However, the awareness for quartz's fine points -- its beauty and durability is driving the demand for the product in US and Canada, regions that materially lag the penetration of other countries and the marginal improvement and acceptability of the product within these regions will have a disproportionate impact on the category's growth trajectory.

Pokarna Perspectives – Quartz

Pokarna manufactures “Engineered Stone” or “Compound Stone” from its 100% owned subsidiary M/s. Pokarna Engineered Stone Limited (PESL). PESL is amongst the Country's leading engineered stone manufacturing Company with exports across most of the developed and emerging markets, with a strong presence in the US and Europe. It is also the nation's only company to manufacture quartz surfaces using the patented Bretonstone® Technology. Bretonstone System from Breton S.p.A. of Italy, is considered to be amongst the finest of its kind in the world.

PESL, markets its engineered stone products under the brand Quantra® which is available in 64 different color palettes besides being rich in aesthetic appeal also offer an unbeatable quality and panache.

The Company's manufacturing unit located at Vishakapatnam is equipped with extensive laboratory, enabling the company's R&D staff to develop new colors, besides facilitating conducting of tests and analysis of various products via its modern machinery. Further, being situated in the port city, offers several advantages to the Company as it allows the factory to utilize quartz from the state of Andhra Pradesh, which is noted for its strong physical characteristics and high level of clarity.

During the year, PESL achieved revenues worth ₹ 135.73 crore and PBIT of ₹ 31.63 Crore as against ₹ 61.49 crore and ₹ 9.78 crore respectively during last year. Domestic Exports mix stood at ₹ 14.64 crore and ₹ 121.09 crore respectively with sizeable export contribution from USA i.e ₹ 98.38 crore constituting 72.48% of the export revenues.

During the year 2014-15, Company executed various projects including Hilton – New York & Chicago, US, Hampton Inn – Wilson, US, Hilton Garden Inn – Bolingbrook, US, Hilton Conrad, Bengaluru, Hotel Marriott, Colombo.

The Subsidiary Company's products also received GREENGUARD and GREENGUARD Gold certification from UL Environment, a division of UL (Underwriters Laboratories), the global safety science leader during the year. Following which, PESL became the first Indian Quartz surfaces manufacturer to have been awarded such certification. Further, PESL also entered into a strategic alliance with Dekker Zevenhuizen B.V, wherein the latter will exclusively distribute PESL's quartz surfaces in Benelux Market. The products will be co-branded as “EQ by Quantra” under the agreement. The alliance will result in further strengthening and widening of the Company's reach in Benelux region.

FLOORING & CARPETS SEGMENT

OUTLOOK

The global demand for floor covering is expected to rise 4.5 percent annually to 19.4 billion square meters, reaching a level of $325 billion through 2018. The improved demand is expected to be fueled by the revival in the housing construction segment in developed countries in conjunction with sustained growth in building construction activity in the emerging economies. Sustained growth in construction coupled with rising per capita income in the developing world permits households to expend major proportion of expensive floor coverings. In addition, rising motor vehicle production across multiple regions is expected to further harden the demand for floor coverings.

Through 2018, demand for floor coverings is expected to be fastest in North American region, buoyed mainly by the recovery in the US housing sector, with region wide demand for floor coverings in residential buildings forecast to rise 6.2 percent per year through 2018. The Asia / Pacific region is projected to pose the second fastest gains in floor covering demand, with China alone accounting for 36 percent of the incremental demand generated during the period. The strong growth forecasted for Chinese market is expected to further cement their place as the largest national floor covering market.

Growth in other developed countries such as Western Europe, Australia and Japan is expected to fall short in comparison to those expected to be seen in North America or emerging economies. However, the renewal in new housing construction in Australia and Japan both, along with improvement in other Western European countries is expected to result in firming up the demand for floor covering in comparison to the one witnessed during recent years.

The consumption pattern across flooring industry comprising of materials such as ceramic, laminate, wood, carpeting and natural stone varies greatly across geographies. For instance, Ceramic tile constituted approximately fifty percent of flooring covering demand in the Asia / Pacific region and Central and South America, while carpets and rugs were predominant in North America during 2013. The same period also witnessed, maximum usage of resilient flooring in Eastern Europe, where it accounted for just over one-third of regional floor covering demand.

Non-resilient flooring products, which represented nearly three-fifths of floor covering demand worldwide during 2013, are expected to post the fastest growth demand through 2018. Manufacturers of non-resilient flooring are expected to benefit from rapid growth demand in Asia, wherein the same account for vast majority of floor covering sales.

Demand for carpets and rugs will enjoy its fastest growth in North America due to these products' extensive use in the residential market in the US.

	World Flooring & Carpet Demand (Mn Sq. Mtrs)			% Annual Growth

COUNTERTOP SEGMENT

Based on average installed price, (including installation and other related costs), the global countertop industry generated approximately $81 billion in sales to end consumers in 2014. Amongst the surfaces, Granite with a share of 27 percent continued to remain the preferred material for countertops, to be followed by 25 percent share of solid surfaces in 2014. Quartz with a meagre 10 percent share remains near the infancy stage of a long term penetration opportunity.

Region wise Europe, Asia Pacific and North America with demand in excess of 20 percent continued to remain the top three markets for the products. Demand in North American market remained strong following the improved labor and housing market in the region. Improving new and existing home sales coupled with consistent repair and remodeling spending helped maintained the growth momentum.

2014 Global Countertop Demand

2014 Global Countertop Demand by Material

Global demand for countertops is projected to grow at 4.3 percent annually through 2018 to 505 million square meters (Source: Freedonia), with building activity, building size and economic wealth being the key pointers of countertops usage.

Improved building construction activity, primarily in the developed economies which continues to recover from the worldwide recession and the subsequent gradual recovery through 2013 coupled with the developing economies efforts towards expanding and modernizing its building stock given their sustained population growth will principally drive the demand for the segment.

Usage of countertops in kitchens, bathrooms, and other areas is more predominant in developed markets like North America, Western Europe, Japan and other developed markets as compared to emerging countries. Gains in North America which was the second largest regional market for countertops in 2013 are expected to sustain given the continued recovery in US building construction and, in particular, growth in single-family housing completions, which will further benefit from ongoing consumer preference for spacious kitchens and multiple bathrooms that require more countertop area. Western Europe is expected to witness similar growth through 2018 given the pick-up in construction of new houses in many countries across the region, further boosting the demand for countertops.

The Asia/ Pacific region was the largest market for countertops in 2013, with nearly half of the global total. The region, generally an immature market with free-standing furniture, pedestal sinks, and other low-cost alternatives being more common than conventional countertops is expected to achieve the fastest gains in countertop through 2018. Within the region, China owing to its rising standards of living and continual projects towards modernizing their housing and nonresidential building stock is expected to drive the growth in the area. India the region's second largest market in 2013 will continue to see gains stemming from its present lower level of countertop penetration, coupled with the improving per capita income level and enhanced distribution network given its economic progress.

The type of materials used in countertops varies depending on factors such as the relative wealth of consumers and their style preferences, and the availability of local materials. Laminate and natural stone are the dominant materials used for countertops at present. Almost 33 percent of all laminate countertops were sold in North America, wherein usage of the material is predominant given their low cost. However, Laminate is expected to lose its market share globally to natural and engineered stone. Engineered stone countertops are projected to record the fastest growth reflecting lower penetration rates in many markets.

Also, the usage of natural stone countertops is relatively common in countries endowed with extensive quarries irrespective of local economic development. In countries, where natural stone has to be imported, it is utilized more often in high-end applications based on its comparatively high price.

In 2013, Solid surface comprised approximately 20 percent of global demand, of which nearly 70 percent of was sold in Asia / Pacific region wherein they are low-cost options because of an extensive local production base.

	World Countertop Demand (Mn Sq. Mtrs)			% Annual Growth
