Management Discussions and analysis forming part of Director's Report:

Factors effecting demand and supply of stone industry:

The World Bank Global Economic Prospects January 2017 report added that the Indian economy is subsequently set to recover its growth momentum, with growth rising to 7.6% in FY18 and further strengthening to 7.8% in FY20.

The proposed Goods & Service Tax (GST) with tax rates on higher side has come as a severe blow especially for stone industry. The industry is already facing problem with declining trend in the export to the international markets.

With the imposition of 28% tax on the marble slabs and tiles, the demand will decline substantially. As on such rates marble slabs and tiles would face direct competition from ceramic industry and customer would prefer to shift low rates alternate stone product such as Kota stone as well as explore import from cheap China.

Impact of Government Policy on the Industry:

In addition to above, the series of various Government policy on mining industry has had a cascading effect on the stone industry. This further catapulted loss of business and send negative sentiments to ensuing investment. This lack of policy support from the government, economic slowdown worldwide and increased imports from China too have taken a toll on the stone industry.

The stone industry still comes under the minor minerals category. In spite of huge investments and employment in the field of processing and mining industry, the stone industry been treated at par with industries like sand mining, stone crushing and building stones used for construction of road making. Even the banking sector is reluctant to extend financial support or loan for the industry.

Despite having huge domestic mineral reserve, India is at the seventh position in terms of exports after China, Italy, Turkey, Egypt, Greece and Brazil. India has one of the largest resources natural stones such like marble and granite. Government has to introduce right policies so as to improve its position in export market.

Responsibility Statement:

The Director's Confirm:

- a) That in the preparation of the annual accounts, the applicable accounting standards have been followed and that no material departures have been made from the same.
- b) That they have selected such accounting policies and applied them consistently and made judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent so as to give true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company at the end of the financial year and of the profit or loss of the Company for that period;
