HC registry rejects Centre plea against min's Kanjur land order

Swati.Deshpande
@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Bombay High Court registry on Jan 17 rejected a 2020 petition filed by Central government through its salt pan commissioner against state's then revenue minister Chandrakant Patil's Nov 2018 order claiming ownership of salt pan land in Kanjur, observing that Centre had not completed certain administrative formalities and hence was "not interested in pursuing the present petition".

The petition had also challenged a May 2015 order of Konkani division which led to the 2018 order. HC registry, on the administrative side, noted Centre had not yet removed certain office objections raised by it, including ensuring documents annexed are legible and prints are visible.

Now, Centre has readied an interim application for restoration of the petition to the file by seeking four weeks' time to comply with office formalities. It will file the application on Monday.

Centre's advocate D P Singh was present before HC prothonotary—senior-most officer on administrative side—and sought time to remove the office objections and get the petition numbered.

The petition was clubbed with another one it had filed in 2020 and was jointly heard till Aug 2022.

On Oct 1, 2020, the collector—when MVA government was in power—decided to transfer 102 acres of Kanjur salt pan land to Mumbai Metropolitan Region Development Authority (MMRDA) for Metro-3 car shed. MMRDA approached the collector with a request to allot the land to set up a car depot and casting yard for Metro 3 and earlier on Dec 16, 2020, HC had granted a stay on state decision to transfer the land for the car shed and later asked state and Centre to consider an amicable solution. Centre had filed a separate petition also in 2020 to challenge the Oct 1, 2020, order of the collector to transfer the land.

On Aug 30, 2022, after the new Eknath Shinde government came to power, it withdrew the Oct 1, 2020, collector order to transfer the 102-acre Kanjur salt pan land to MMRDA for the car shed and casting yard. Thus, HC disposed of Centre's challenge to the collector's order on Aug 30, 2022.

Then Uddhav Thackeray-led government had in 2020 scrapped earlier Devendra Fadnis government's move to construct a car shed in Aarey and sought Kanjur salt pan land for Metro 3 line from Colaba-Bandra-Seez and an interchange station for Metro 3 and 6 lines (Lokhandwala-Vikhroli). Centre claiming ownership of salt pan land had sought reconsideration of state's decision to shift the car shed to Kanjur.

HC said prima facie collector's order "could not withstand judicial scrutiny because of serious infirmities in the decision-making process".

Soon, CR's pod hotel to come up at Matheran

Manthan K. Mehta
@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: Central Railway (CR) will soon introduce sleeping pods, also known as pod hotel, at the scenic hill station of Matheran.

A capsule hotel is also popularly known as a pod hotel. It is a type of accommodation, which was first developed in Japan. It has a number of small bed-sized rooms known as capsules.

This initiative is part of the New Innovative Non Fare Revenue Income Scheme (NINFRIS) of the Indian Railways, aimed at providing enhanced comfort, affordable and economical accommodation options for tourists visiting Matheran, CR officials said.

CR's chief public relations officer Swapnil Nila said, "The decision follows the remarkable success of the sleeping pods at CSMT, which has garnered widespread acceptance among passengers."

The contract for the development and operation of the pod hotel has been awarded through an e-auction.

The successful bidder secured the contract for an annual amount of Rs 8.19 lakh. The total contract period spans 10 years, with a provision for a 10% annual escalation in licence fees after the completion of the first three years of the contract.

Spread over a 758.7 sqm area, the pod hotel at Matheran will feature single pods, double pods and family pods, providing a range of accommodation options to cater to the diverse needs of tourists. Nila said, "These air-conditioned pods are designed to offer maximum comfort and privacy, equipped with modern amenities such as mobile charging facilities, locker room services, fire alarms, intercom systems, deluxe toilet and bathroom facilities, among others."

Booking options for the pod hotel are flexible, with tourists able to reserve pods through both physical means at the reception and online via a dedicated mobile app.

Central Railway believes that the introduction of sleeping pods at Matheran will also contribute significantly to the local economy by promoting tourism and providing employment opportunities, according to officials.

The pods are compact with size of 6ftx8ft each and hence require less space. The customers get a rich sophisticated feeling inside the pod, officials said. It is also very economical from capital investment point of view since each pod costs somewhere around Rs 7 lakh and can be placed over the other, thus occupying less space and allowing more guests in same space.

The pod concept is more suitable for frequent travellers, backpackers, single travellers, corporate executives, study groups etc. The first pod hotel was opened on railway premises at the Mumbai Central on Western Railway in Nov 2021.

Mumbai-born opera singer dies in London

Mumbai: Minoo Golvala, an opera singer who was called 'Mario Lanza of Bombay', passed away in London on Friday. He was 88.

Born into a Parsi household in 1936 in Mumbai, Golvala, who studied at St Xavier's College, was awarded a scholarship to the Conservatory in Rome at age 18. He then went on to train at London's Guildhall School of Music and Drama under legendary Welsh tenor Parry-Jones.

"It can be said that with a little more experience, he can flower into an admirable light tenor," wrote a music critic in TOI in February 1965, sizing up a performance by Golvala at a show organised in Mumbai by noted accordionist Goody Seervai along with the Time and Talents Club, a 1934-born non-profit then predominantly made up of Parsi women. Later, Golvala appeared in various British TV shows. "He had been ailing for some time," said Roger Pereira, who studied with him in St Xavier's College. TNN

Police trace & rescue man mins before his suicide attempt

Navi Mumbai: Timely intervention by Panvel city police team on Thursday evening helped save the life of a Chembur hotel management graduate, Rushikesh Mhatre (27), who tried to commit suicide in Karanjade, Panvel.

Mhatre had posted about live streaming his suicide on social media at 11pm, after which one of his friends, Shailesh Gaikwad, alerted police. A source said 25 constables headed by assistant police inspector Bajrang Rajput set out to track Mhatre's location and managed to rescue him minutes before his suicide bid. The source said Mhatre is under depression and decided to take the extreme step owing to family and marital dispute.

Police said Mhatre had a love marriage which caused dispute in his family. He was working in a hotel in Mumbai but quit his job. Later, his wife left him for another man after which he became depressed. "We counselled him at our police station and his family members were also called," said Rajput.

Decoding the high-stakes arrival of global masterpieces in India

Mohua.Das@timesgroup.com

The National Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art (NMACC) recently lit up with Marilyn Monroe's smile, radiating across 45 frames on a silk screen painting in a pop art spectacle that had Andy Warhol, Roy Lichtenstein and other iconic artists of the American Pop Art era, making their debut on Indian walls. Meanwhile, the rotunda of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Vastu Sangrahalaya (CSMVS) is currently the stage for a ten-month exhibit that unites divine sculptures from the ancient Mediterranean from museums in London, Berlin and Los Angeles with Indian sacred sculptures. Then there's a rare copy of the Magna Carta from the UK among other historically significant artefacts that took centre stage at the G20 'culture corridor' in Delhi last year.

India has swung open its doors to the world's most prized treasures from museums worldwide. But getting fragile, valuable and ancient art from foreign lands to Indian shores is far from just a bubble wrap. It's a logistical labyrinth where trust is the ultimate currency to secure loans from international museums and galleries while conservators, art handlers, and fine art logistics companies work in tandem to ensure every art piece glides through borders seamlessly. This involves unique packing materials, climate-controlled display, and seasoned hands that understand the weight of legacies.

Anupam Sah, art conservation and collection care consultant for the international exhibitions, India in Fashion and Pop Art, at the NMACC, reflects on the shift. "Museums, once seen as static storage, are now an integral part of our cultural and educational impetus," he says. "A fresh focus on collecting, storing, and showcasing cultural artefacts has evolved into a team effort involving the government, passionate individuals, and corporate entities, all contributing to the momentum."

While the liaisons between institutions, galleries, auction houses, and Indian entities, signals an important development, "Ensuring safety of the collection is primary in building trust," Sah explains.

"Fortunately, both Isha (Ambani) and I have longstanding connections with galleries, museums, and collectors," says Lawrence Van Hagen, curator of the NMACC pop art exhibition, who leveraged his curatorial experience since 2016. "When introducing 'Pop: Fame, Love and Power,' my network responded with immediate excitement," he recalls. "Many of the collectors grasped the historical significance of bringing together pioneering pop artists for the first time in India."

Once institutions express interest in bringing a collection to the country and a written agreement is in place, a team of curators and conservators from both institutions take charge, selecting objects and conducting a condition check for each artwork, detailed in a 'report card'.

"Every minute mark and detail are documented and photographed, like an X-ray of the artwork's health," says Sah. Simultaneously, a 'facility report' is commissioned, offering a behind-the-scenes look at the hosting institution's setup, including security measures, police response time, building construction, and environmental conditions—to assess its ability to safeguard the artefacts.

"Even the type of glass or paint matters. Toughened glass and enamel paint might get a thumbs-down. Everything, from wall pins to carpet off-gassing, is scrutinised," adds Sah.

Fine art transport is no ordinary cargo job either. "Every aspect of the 'wall to wall' or 'nail to nail' movement needs to be carefully planned, several months in advance and executed with utmost precision," says Al Mithal, founder & CEO of Star Worldwide Group, a fine arts logistics company that has been handling high-value fine art, including fragile sculptures, paintings, and other art objects, for over two decades.

Planning begins months ahead, including de-installation and installation of artworks, specific packing requirements, access to routing and choosing between passenger or cargo freighter aircraft. For Mithal, it's also about understanding the emotional value of art. "We're not just moving objects," he says, "we're moving legacies."

Think of it like swaddling a newborn. The size and nature of the artwork dictate the approach. "For museum objects, conservators are consulted to ensure it meets strict preservation standards," adds Mithal. The first wrap features soft, acid-free tissues and fabric. The crate itself is a work of art with treated wood, ethafoam lining and a shock detector for any unusual movement during transit.

From departure to arrival, and throughout the exhibition, a dedicated team ensures that everything maintains its original condition. "For the pop art exhibition, checks were conducted every two days, climate conditions monitored, and we even kept an eye on carbon dioxide levels affected by visitor footfall," explains Sah.

Hagen speaks of the often overlooked aspect—climate control or maintaining the right temperature, managing dust levels, and addressing suspended particulate matter (SPM)—given Mumbai's weather conditions and extensive construction underway. Rishita Shah from Art House at NMACC adds: "We have an HVAC (Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning) system in place for improved indoor air quality that ensures artworks don't go into shock when we open the cases."

At the CSMVS, the conservation department studied environmental conditions in the gallery where the exhibition is presently showcased. "It revealed that despite Mumbai's external challenges like high humidity, dust, and pollution, the greenery in front of the campus and the tree cover create a protective environment indoors. We also set up mock display cases and conducted a year-long technical experiment to mitigate any major risks to objects," explains Nikhil Ramesh, curator of the conservation department at the CSMVS.

These treasures, often worth millions, require comprehensive insurance coverage. However, there's no standardised policy for art insurance in India yet. "It's more of an incipient effort to determine the value," says Sah. To safeguard against damages, should the unthinkable happen, "We work with expert valuers like the National Screening & Evaluation Committee or approved government museums," explains Mithal.

Beyond the tangible and financial, what is also at stake is reputation—both of the institution and the country, notes Sah. "When entrusted with safeguarding someone else's valuable possessions, it goes beyond a transaction. A mishap doesn't just affect the institution, it impacts the country's image and can quickly escalate into national concerns."

City revs up for Ram Mandir celebrations

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Mumbai: Housing societies, temples, community organisations and political parties alike are preparing to celebrate Monday's inauguration of Ram Mandir in Ayodhya. Fancy dress and costume stores located in Lalbaug-Parel as well as Bhuleshwar are running short of flags and religious paraphernalia.

Ankush Jain of Riddhi Siddhi Dresswala, Lalbaug, said, "People are making bulk purchase of flags, neck scarves and Ramayan costumes to participate in processions and housing society functions. Nearly all items are out of stock." He estimates that around one lakh saffron flags are being sold in Lalbaug each day. "I myself turned down an order for almost 10,000. Even sample stocks are over."

Manufacturing units are in Surat, Gujarat, where craftsmen are working day and night to fulfil orders, which in turn has raised labour costs. "As a result, the cost of items has increased," Jain said.

Parents are arriving in droves to hire costumes for children, says Chirag Sonchhatra of Jai Balaji Dresswala, Bhuleshwar. "Schools are shut on Jan 22 but so many private organisations and societies are having programmes. We have given nearly 500 kids' costumes on hire/purchase," he said.

Both ISKCON temples in Juhu as well as Girgaum Chowpatty will be lit and decorated. Radhagopinath ISKCON mandir in Chowpatty is organising a three-day Ram Katha from Jan 21 to 23, said spokesperson Lucky Kulkarni. On Jan 22, a Ram Darbar with several lamps will be placed in the courtyard. ISKCON Juhu will lead a procession to Juhu Beach on Sunday evening, said spokesperson Parvata Devi. "The Ayodhya ceremony will be relayed live on a big screen, after which devotees can offer oil lamps and partake of a prasad meal. In addition, Chhappan Bhog will be available at the temple's Govinda restaurant," she said.

Shree Mumbai Jain Sangh will distribute sweetmeats outside 1,200 derasars to rickshaws and taxi drivers on Monday, said trustee Nitin Bora. Community organisations are leading shobha yatra in Vile Parle, Borivli, Ghatkopar and South Mumbai.

NSCI Club in Worli has decorated its gates in saffron motifs. President Viren Shah said, "Flex boards depicting Ramayan with bells and oil lamps will be placed. A large LED screen will show stories from Ramayan. Our SVP stadium dome will have a play on Ramayan on Jan 22 at discounted rates. One member Ramkishore Singh has volunteered to give prasad."
