Customer Success Stories

AWS Cloud Toolchest Platform

Business Issue Multiple Web based applications for all platform services, most of them are microservices

Challenge/s

No single unified platform for multiple tools

Not able to focus on core activities

Services & Benefits

Created web-based platform bridging applications & engineers Role based access control, single sign on, detailed log Predictions for future investments

New tools development did not require rebuild of platform capabilities World's largest construction equipment manufacturer

Engineering Automation framework

Business Issue: Effort intensive and manual review of 2D & 3D drawings

> Challenge/s: Errors due to absence of intuitive & automated tools

Services & Benefits: Designed and developed container-based architecture on the cloud

ML model that could learn test cell output and feedback to NPI programs Image processing and Image-based search Productivity doubled to 55% with 92% accuracy

Leading healthcare major

Product Re-design

Business Issue A major healthcare facility was looking to revamp and re-design their hospital beds

Challenge/s

Old Hospital beds were uncomfortable and posing risks to patients

Services & Benefits

Design specialists reverse engineered the entire hospital bed basis only photographs and w/o any CAD models/drawings

Embedded new electronic parts to automate the bed for enhanced patient safety and comfort

Compatible 3D printing designs developed for cost-effective production.

Global transportation and locomotive company

Value Engineering

Business Issue: Steadily increasing costs to build a locomotive engine

Challenge/s Too many parts and suppliers across the globe

Services & Benefits

Consulting led by domain experts in the manufacturing and design process Cost engineered the client's entire diesel locomotive engine Also supported the client in finding lowcost vendors

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

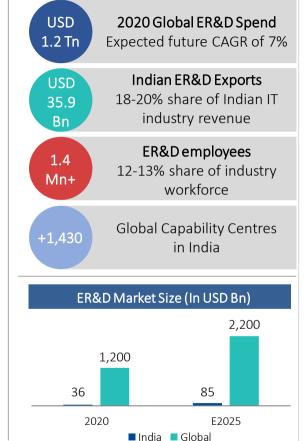

Engineering R&D Service Industry

- In 2020, the global Engineering R&D spend was USD 1.2 Tn, with corporate Engineering R&D spend being USD 772 Bn.
- In 2021, Indian firms clocked USD 35.9 Billion in ER&D service exports, according to NASSCOM.
- As the largest exporter of ER&D services, this has huge implications for India, and the opportunity could be as large as USD 100 Billion.
- India is rapidly emerging as the destination for innovation and technology by tapping into its robust and thriving start-up ecosystem. Additionally, proactive and supportive policies are also an attractive advantage.
- Recent investments and government initiatives such as Make in India, Skill India, Digital India, and Startup India have significantly contributed to establishing the country as an attractive destination for ER&D and innovation.
- India surpassed China in attracting funds for engineering R&D, clearly marking India as the next destination for high-end ER&D. Of the overall USD 100 Billion spent globally on outsourced ER&D, India accounted for about USD 31 to USD 32 Billion. Global companies across Asia are increasing investment in India to leverage the country's advantages in talent, cost, and policy support.
- India, today, is home to more than 1,430+ Global Capability Centers (GCCs) that conduct offshore product development and provide product engineering services for their headquarters. These GCCs represent some of the largest Fortune 500 companies that have their largest or second-largest R&D centers located here, including GE, Samsung, Cisco, Intel, Daimler Benz, Airbus, Boeing, and Bosch.
- Currently, there are approximately 1.4 Mn+ engineers involved in ER&D in the country. To service a USD 85 Billion market, we will need to add another one million engineers in the next five years.
- Over the last 5 years, this industry has witnessed a 75% growth in employee-base and a 11% CAGR in revenues, while significantly supporting their global organizations digital transformation journey.

Digital Transformation

- The covid-19 pandemic has accelerated the demand for hi-tech by shrivelling human activity into a world of apps. The explosion in online activity has galvanized massive cloud-led adoption, digital adoption, and transformation of the core. Global digital penetration has been reset at lower levels in light of emerging realities, thereby resetting the high-growth phase for technology from up to FY24 to up to FY27 in the least.
- Software & Internet vertical is the largest contributor to ER&D Spend, with USD 196 Billion and also contributes ~40% to the overall Digital Engineering spend, driven by investments in Digital Engineering Stack and new-age technologies such as AI/ML, AR/VR, Big Data Analytics, and Blockchain.
- Digital Engineering is accelerating across industries and is led by Software & Internet, which ٠ accounts for USD 160 Billion and is expected to grow at a 22% CAGR to reach USD 527 Billion by 2025.
- Enterprises are making significant investments in Digital Engineering initiatives to continue to stay relevant. Services-led verticals such as BFSI, Media & Technology, Retail, Healthcare Payers & Providers, and Travel & Hospitality are rushing to build new products and services to drive differentiation, thereby creating ER&D opportunities for providers.
- Indian software industry body Nasscom forecasts 15-20% CAGR growth in digital • transformation spend globally. Enterprise digital transformation spend globally is currently at USD 1 04 Trillion
- It also forecasts Indian digital economy would catapult to a USD 1 Trillion industry by 2025 • from USD 200 Billion in 2020.
- According to a report by EY, Of the 500 corporates surveyed, for the largest share of their ٠ investment over the past two years, the top four were cloud (60%), data and advanced analytics (52%), the Internet of Things (IoT) (50%) and AI (47%).
