Trump still says he won; reiterates fraud allegations

Washington, Nov. 19: President Donald Trump on Wednesday again asserted that he "won" the November 3 presidential election as he reiterated his allegations that there was voter fraud all over the US.

"AND I WON THE ELECTION. VOTER FRAUD ALL OVER THE COUNTRY!" Trump wrote in an all caps tweet in which he tagged a tweet of The New York Times along with a map of the United States which said he received 10.1 million more votes across the US than he received four years ago, including in areas with a majority of Hispanic voters.

Another tweet from The New York Times in the same series said that President-elect Joe Biden added 12.6 million votes over Hillary Clinton's total from four years ago. He did well in urban and suburban counties, especially those with educated white voters, including in Republican areas, it said.

Last week, the mainstream media declared Biden as the winner of the presidential election after the 77-year-old former vice president crossed the mandatory 270 electoral votes out of the 538-member Electoral College. Trump, however, has refused to concede the election, asserting that he has won. He has filed several lawsuits alleging massive electoral fraud.

Media and state officials have said that they do not have any evidence of large-scale voter fraud. Trump, meanwhile, accused the media of supporting Biden during the election campaign.

Continuing with his tweets, Trump alleged that this was a rigged election. "This was a rigged election. No Republican Poll Watchers allowed, voting machine glitches all over the place (meaning they got caught cheating!), voting after election ended, and so much more!" he said.

"They didn't even allow Republican Observers into the building to watch. A terrible insult to our Constitution!" he said tagging a tweet which said that the Pennsylvania Supreme Court with a 5-2 majority opinion rejected the Trump Campaign's claim that Republican observers didn't get "meaningful access" to watch the vote counting.

Trump also vented his anger against the recount in Georgia, a traditional Republican State that he lost to Biden in a close race. As Trump, 74, has refused to concede the election, the transition team of Biden and Vice President-elect Kamala Harris says that the Trump administration is not cooperating with them in transition.

Obama's 768-page memoir, which came out on Tuesday and has a list price of $45, had unusually risky timing for a book of such importance to the author, to readers and to the publishing industry.

It came out just two weeks after Election Day and could have been overshadowed had the race still been in doubt or perhaps unwanted by distressed Obama fans if President Donald Trump had defeated Democratic nominee Joe Biden. But Biden won and his victory likely renews interest in an era when he was Obama's trusted and popular Vice President. Because of the pandemic, Obama will not go on the all-star arena tour Michelle Obama had for "Becoming".

'A Promised Land': Obama's book sells 890,000 copies in 24 hours

New York, Nov. 19: Former President Barack Obama's "A Promised Land" sold nearly 890,000 copies in the U.S. and Canada in its first 24 hours, putting it on track to be the best selling presidential memoir in modern history.

The first-day sales, a record for Penguin Random House, includes pre-orders, e-books and audio.

We are thrilled with the first day sales, said David Drake, publisher of the Penguin Random House imprint Crown. They reflect the widespread excitement that readers have for President Obama's highly anticipated and extraordinarily written book.

The only book by a former White House resident to come close to the early pace of "A Promised Land" is the memoir by Obama's wife, Michelle Obama, whose "Becoming" sold 725,000 copies in North America its first day and has topped 10 million worldwide since its release in 2018. "Becoming" is still so in demand that Crown, which publishes both Obamas and reportedly paid around $60 million for their books, has yet to release a paperback.

As of midday Wednesday, "A Promised Land" was No. 1 on Amazon.com and Barnes & Noble.com. James Daunt, CEO of Barnes & Noble, said that the superstore chain easily sold more than 50,000 copies its first day and hoped to reach half a million within 10 days.

By comparison, Bill Clinton's "My Life" sold around 400,000 copies in North America its first day and George W. Bush's "Decision Points" around 220,000, with sales for each memoir currently between 3.5 and 4 million copies. The fastest selling book in memory remains J.K. Rowling's seventh and final Harry Potter novel, "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows", which came out in 2007 and sold more than 8 million copies within 24 hours.

Olympics under new normal: Rules getting finalised

Tokyo, Nov. 19: Athletes at the Tokyo Olympics won't have the luxury of hanging around once they've wrapped up their event.

No late-night parties in the Athletes Village. No nights or early mornings on the town.

Instead of getting to know their global neighbors, Olympic athletes will be encouraged to leave Japan a day or two after they've finished competing. From the opening ceremony to life in the village on Tokyo Bay, the postponed 2020 Olympics will be like no other.

There'll be stringent rules and guidelines and maybe vaccines and rapid testing to pull off the games in the middle of a pandemic that has been blamed for more than 1 million deaths worldwide.

"Staying longer in the village increases the potential for problems," John Coates, the IOC member in charge of overseeing Tokyo preparations, said Wednesday at a briefing for the Olympics and Paralympics.

Coates was asked if athletes would be discouraged from sightseeing, or looking around the city.

Yes, he replied simply, a short answer suggesting these Olympics will be all business with few frills.

Coates accompanied International Olympic Committee President Thomas Bach to Tokyo this week as he met Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga and shored up support with key Japanese sponsors.

It was Bach's first visit to Japan since the Olympics were postponed in March.

Bach left Tokyo on Wednesday after two days of saying a vaccine was likely to be available and athletes would be strongly encouraged to take it. Organisers and the IOC are growing confident they will have a vaccine and rapid testing.

Indian Navy gets ninth Poseidon 8I maritime aircraft

New Delhi, Nov. 19: The Indian Navy on Wednesday received the first of the four Poseidon 8I maritime reconnaissance and anti-submarine warfare aircraft from the US under a $1.1 billion deal, official sources said.

The aircraft, equipped with the latest sensors, landed at INS Hansa, a key naval base in Goa, in the morning, they said. The Indian Navy already has a fleet of eight P-8I aircraft which are extensively deployed to keep track of movement of Chinese ships and submarines in the Indian Ocean Region.

The P-8I, based on the Boeing next-generation 737 commercial airplane, is a variant of the P-8A Poseidon used by the US Navy. India was Boeing's first international customer for this aircraft.

The first P-8I aircraft was inducted into the Indian Navy in 2013. In 2016, the defence ministry had placed a follow-on order for four additional P-8I under the USD 1.1 billion deal.

Last year, the government cleared the procurement of another batch of six P-8Is. The P-8Is were deployed to carry out surveillance on the movement of Chinese troops in eastern Ladakh in the last few months. The reconnaissance aircraft was deployed in Doklam along the Sikkim border too during the 73-day standoff between Indian and Chinese troops in 2017.

The P-8Is were also deployed to keep an eye on the movement of Pakistani troops after the Pulwama terror attack last year.
