Birla rejoining board may help Vi raise funds

Capital expenditure and introduction of 5G remain concerns

JATIN GROVER
New Delhi, May 7

ADITYA BIRLA GROUP chairman Kumar Mangalam Birla's return to Vodafone Idea's board last month has been welcomed by the market as it boosts investor confidence in the company's prospects, said analysts.

They also feel that it would help the company raise funds, something it has been trying for a long time. However, key concerns remain. The company needs to service bank debt of around ₹ 8,000 crore by December-end, and still has not been able to roll out 5G services.

HOPING FOR A TURNAROUND

Analysts feel that Birla rejoining the board would help the company raise funds, something it has been trying for a long time

However, they say weak balance sheet remains a concern, though banks would expect substantial investments by promoters

"No doubt that with Birla rejoining back the company's board, chances of fund raise have improved. However, weak balance sheet remains a concern," a Mumbai-based analyst with a leading brokerage firm said.

According to analysts, it is not that by just raising ₹10,000 crore everything would be back on track for Vodafone Idea.

At a time when competitors Bharti Airtel and Jio are having an annual capital expenditure of about ₹25,000 crore and rolled out 5G in over 5,500 cities, Vodafone Idea's weak cash flow, lower spends on the networks as well as future debt obligation at the end of moratorium will also be looked at by any prospective lender or investor.

According to industry executives, banks have done the due diligence on Vodafone Idea way before the government converted its interest dues worth ₹ 16,000 crore into equity. However, they were only waiting for the promoters to show their commitment towards the company.

With Birla back on board, banks would expect substantial investments by the promoters also, industry executives said. In February, the government converted Vodafone Idea's interest dues and became the single largest shareholder in the company with a 33.4% stake. The government's interest conversion came only after the promoter assured of making investments into the company.

Three months after the conversion, no additional fund infusion has taken place. Besides, the company is yet to meet the government's minimum rollout obligation for the first year to launch 5G services.

"I thought as a promoter it is only right that I also indicate my willingness to take the business forward which is why the decision to come back on the board (was taken)," news agency PTI had quoted Birla last month.

At the end of the October-December quarter, Vodafone Idea's gross debt (excluding lease liabilities and including interest accrued but not due) rose to ₹2.23 trillion, comprising deferred spectrum payment obligations of ₹1.39 trillion, AGR liabilities of ₹69,910 crore that are due to the government, and debt from banks and financial institutions of ₹13,190 crore. Once the moratorium ends in September 2025, the company's annual instalments for spectrum and adjusted gross revenue (AGR) dues would come around ₹43,000 crore. Based on the company's cash Ebitda, Vodafone Idea is expected to have a gap of ₹30,000 crore, according to analysts.

"Our base case remains that Vodafone Idea will be a going concern and we assume in the long term that a part of outstanding debt on spectrum and AGR will also be equitised by the government. While headline sub losses sustain, key driver for the stock post-equitisation of part government debt is debt refinancing and capital infusion in the medium term," JP Morgan said.

Status quo in UK can't continue: Tata Steel CEO

TATA STEEL NEEDS to take a call on the future of its UK operations in the next year or two as the assets are nearing the end of life and the status quo cannot continue, the company's global CEO and Managing Director TV Narendran said.

Tata Steel has sought a financial package from the UK government for replacing two blast furnaces, which are nearing the end of life in 12-24 months, and bringing down the carbon footprint at its Port Talbot facility in South Wales.

The status quo cannot continue, Narendran said, adding that the company will either have to shut down the operations there or it will have to execute the decarbonisation plans with the help of a financial package from the UK government.

The company is talking to the UK government for a package because the assets are coming near the end of life. — PTI
