Weaker ₹ bumped up India's H1 oil import bill by ₹25,000 crore

SUKALP SHARMA New Delhi, November 14

LOWER VALUE OF the rupee against the US dollar in the first six months of the current financial year (FY24) vis-à-vis the corresponding period of FY23 pushed up India's crude oil imports for the former period by over ₹25,000 crore, or 5%, shows an analysis of India's official trade data.

Rupee depreciation also negatively impacted petroleum product imports in value terms, but its positive effect on value of petroleum product exports from India partly offset the hit to the country's overall oil and petroleum product trade in the first half of FY24.

India is the world's thirdlargest consumer of crude oil and depends on imports to meet over 85% of its requirement. Crude oil also tops the list of India's merchandise imports by value.

While India does not export crude oil, it is a net exporter of petroleum products, thanks to the country's refining capacity of over 250 million tonnes per annum which exceeds its domestic demand. Like most internationally traded commodities, crude oil and petroleum products are priced in dollars. In the case of oil importing countries, a weakening of their currencies against the dollar inflates their oil imports in local currency terms.

The rupee depreciated by over 9% between early April 2022 and end of September 2023. In the calendar year 2022 (January-December), the Indian currency depreciated by around 10% against the dollar, mainly on account of interest rate hikes and monetary policy tightening by the US Federal Reserve and the Russia-Ukraine war.

In fact, in April-September of FY23 alone, the rupee's value depreciated by around 7% due to the safe haven appeal of the greenback amid fears of recession and inflation globally, and the Ukraine war.

20 critical mineral blocks to go under the hammer

The Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation Amendment)Act,2023,opened up six more critical minerals beryllium, lithium, niobium, titanium, tantallium, zirconium — to the private sector for exploration and mining. The amended law empowers the Centre government to exclusively auction mining lease and composite licence for specified critical minerals.

This is with a view to facilitate and incentivise private sector participation in all spheres of mineral exploration.

Critical minerals have gained significance in view of India's commitment towards energy transition and achieving net-zero emission by 2070. The idea is to reduce the country's import dependence for lithium, the key element for the manufacturing of EV batteries, to the extent possible.

Indiameets about 70% of its lithium requirement via imports, even as it seeks to increase the EV penetration from 1% now to 30% by 2030.

The current share of deepseated minerals like copper, zinc, lead, gold, silver, diamond, nickel, cobalt and the platinum group of minerals in total mineral production of India is insignificant. Most of the requirements are fufilled through imports.

Concessions for these critical minerals would increase the pace of auction and early production of the minerals, which have become indispensable for new technologies such as space, electronics, information technology, energy transition and food security.

Even though auction would be conducted by the central government, the mining lease or composite licence for these minerals to the successful bidders will be granted by the state government concerned and the auction premium and other statutory payments will continue to be received by the states.

Last month, the Centre had approved royalty rates of 3% each for lithium and niobium and one per cent for rare earth elements (REEs).

More awards and recognitions followed, both for Oberoi Hotels and Biki, who received the Padma Vibhushan, India's second-highest civilian honour, and the lifetime achievement award at ILTM (International Luxury Travel Market), recognising his leadership and vision. Burman accused Religare chairman Rashmi Saluja of "insider trading" as she was told of the open offer on September 20, following which she offloaded her shares in the company. However, he said that she was not aware of the open offer price.

"We are the best promoters to run the company as we would be making further investments as and when required, and will not be interfering with the day-to-day affairs of the company. All the large shareholders are backing us, and the company will be run by a professional team," he said. According to Burman, while their merchant bankers are in touch with Sebi regarding the open offer "we have not received any communication from any regulators on the allegations raised by Saluja".

He reiterated there were no plans to change open offer pricing, and shareholders were well within their rights to "sell or stay invested".
