Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

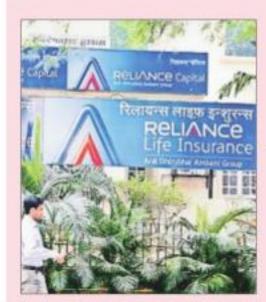

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considered, if the source of the funds for the acquisition contemplates pledging of shares of RGIC and RNLIC.

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

These two assets constitute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administrator for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts.

In three matches of this World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful.It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

Shubman Gill authored. In his brief stay, he stroked three. The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had foundamodicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pairthan Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a stumps.

Such a top-heavy line-up could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyerand KLRahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, the setting up for targets by the bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills seems bottomless. The Ahmedabad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spinners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beauties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the line to define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces. As does those of Ravindra Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning. Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargainwickets.What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team, one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's perfor-

JSW Sports begins to negotiate brand deals for Asian Games athletes

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games' athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear. Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutri-

RCAP ACQUISITION

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considered, if the source of the funds for the acquisition contemplates pledging of shares of RGIC and RNLIC.

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC. These two assets constitute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administrator for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts.

In three matches of this World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educapay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-tional, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would veled. Like the cover drives Shubman Gill authored.

In his brief stay, he stroked three. The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had found a modicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pair than Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a

You could obscure the batsman-ship could see the last fume of hope of Shreyas Iyer and KLRahul. But they are unique in their own Sharma took a single and ways; they have their own spemade way for the man the crowd cialities. Few batsmen step out with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning.Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team. one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. RAJESH KURUP

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutri-bronze medalists including Preeti Sai Pawar (boxing), Vithya Ramraj (400 metre hurdles) and Praveen Chithravel (triple jump) were other athletes supported by the firm.

JSW Sports begins to negotiate brand deals for Asian Games athletes

Mumbai, October 15

RAJESH KURUP

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutrifinancialexp.epapr.in

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considered, if the source of the funds for the acquisition contemplates pledging of shares of RGIC and RNLIC.

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

These two assets constitute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administrator for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutri-

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be consid-

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes resolution plan for approval on October 25.

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts. In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educa-

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

magician's wand in soft, rhythmic movements. But the pull still is his most charming, because pull is designed not to charm but to terrorize bowlers. It's the slap on your face that's more insulting than the more painful punch on your nose. Afridi copped the insult when Sharma pulled Pakistan's most fearsome over fine leg. Such strokes instill a sense of despair among the opponents. You could see the last fume of hope disappearing from Afridi's face.

Sharma took a single and made way for the man the crowd had come to watch the most. There could be a stellar star-cast in this team, but one star is more glittering than the others. That is Virat Kohli. He, like Gill, did not last too long, but in his time in the middle, he thrilled the crowd with his cover-driving. After he was pulled for a four, Afridi responded with a full ball, angling in from around the stumps. Kohli just strode forward, majestically and emphatically and drove him through the covers. He struck the pose in his follow-through that ten thousand cameras would have absorbed to treasure forever. A slice of batting divinity.

Such a top-heavy line-up could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyer and KLRahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beau ties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the lineto define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces.

As does those of Ravindra

Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substan tial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning.Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team. one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's performance has been a sort of cricketing perfection. One you would readily pay to watch.

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO

Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considSEEKING ANSWERS

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts. In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route.But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

veled. Like the cover drives

Shubman Gill authored. In his brief stay, he stroked three.The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had found a modicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pairthan Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a

Such a top-heavy line-up could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyer and KLRahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases,

the setting up for targets by the bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills seems bottomless. The Ahmedabad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spinners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beau ties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the lineto define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces. As does those of Ravindra

Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning.Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team. one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's performance has been a sort of cricketing perfection. One you would readily pay to watch.

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considered, if the source of the funds for the acquisition contemplates pledging of shares of RGIC and RNLIC.

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

These two assets constitute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administrator for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts.

In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route.But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

Shubman Gill authored. In his brief stay, he stroked three.The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had found a modicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pairthan Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a

Such a top-heavy line-up could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyerand KLRahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, abad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spinners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beau ties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the lineto define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills

seems bottomless. The Ahmed-

at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces. As does those of Ravindra

Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning.Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team. one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's performance has been a sort of cricketing perfection. One you would readily pay to watch.

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games'athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutri-

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts. In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

Shubman Gill authored. In his brief stay, he stroked three. The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had found a modicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pair than Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a

magician's wand in soft, rhythmic movements. But the pull still is his most charming, because pull is designed not to charm but to terrorize bowlers. It's the slap on your face that's more insulting than the more painful punch on your nose. Afridi copped the insult when Sharma pulled Pakistan's most fearsome over fine leg. Such strokes instill a sense of despair Such a top-heavy line-up among the opponents. You could see the last fume of hope disappearing from Afridi's face. Sharma took a single and made way for the man the crowd had come to watch the most. There could be a stellar star-cast in this team, but one star is more glittering than the others. That is Virat Kohli. He, like Gill, did not last too long, but in his time in the middle, he thrilled the crowd with his cover-driving. After he was pulled for a four, Afridi responded with a full ball, angling in from around the stumps. Kohli just strode forward, majestically and emphatically and drove him through the covers. He struck the pose in his follow-through that ten thousand cameras would have absorbed to treasure forever. A slice of batting divinity.

could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyerand KL Rahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, ners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beauties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the lineto define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces.

As does those of Ravindra

the setting up for targets by the

bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills

abad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spin-

Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning. Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team. one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's performance has been a sort of cricketing perfection. One you would readily pay to watch.

Mumbai, October 15

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games' athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutri-

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be consid-

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts. In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces.

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate" the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9.

The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be consid-

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarily includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

tute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administra-These two assets constitor for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts. In three matches of this

World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanyakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route.But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense.

It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful. It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

In his brief stay, he stroked three. The third was perhaps the most gorgeous. Hasan Ali had found a modicum of out-swing, but Gill just waits for it, gauges and accounts for the movement and merely coaxes the ball through covers. Still eyes, stiller head and body, he seemed like batting perfection chiseled into human flesh. Has there been a more aesthetically pleasing opening pair than Gill and Rohit Sharma ever in this format? It's doubtful. Sharma has batted as though fueled by a supersonic engine, batting at a strike rate of 141. Here, he has transformed his batting into an expression of joy and freedom, his child-like passion for the game. He has not let the burden of captaining the country on home soil spoil the joy he gets from batting.

He thrilled the audience with an array of strokes, of which each one deserve a space of its own. The cut, the drives, the glides, the bat twirling in his hands like a magician's wand in soft, rhythmic movements. But the pull still is his most charming, because pull is designed not to charm but to terrorize bowlers. It's the slap on your face that's more insulting than the more painful punch on your nose. Afridi copped the insult when Sharma pulled Pakistan's most fearsome over fine leg. Such strokes instill a sense of despair among the opponents. You could see the last fume of hope disappearing from Afridi's face.

Sharma took a single and made way for the man the crowd had come to watch the most. There could be a stellar star-cast in this team, but one star is more glittering than the others. That is Virat Kohli. He, like Gill, did not last too long, but in his time in the middle, he thrilled the crowd with his cover-driving. After he

could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyerand KL Rahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills seems bottomless. The Ahmedabad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spinners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beau ties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the lineto define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly gawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he bowled Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. JSW Sports begins to negotiate brand deals for Asian Games athletes

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games' athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW Sports said.

To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutrithe firm.

Irdai rejection raises questions for IIHL on source of funds

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

THE ADMINISTRATOR TO Reliance Capital's (RCap) insolvency process has sought the details of Hinduja Group's source of funds and business plans after the insurance regulator rejected its proposal to raise funds by pledging shares. The group had earlier sought approvals to raise funds to complete RCap's resolution process by pledging shares of the debt-laden firm's two insurance subsidiaries.

The Hinduja Group is the successful resolution applicant for the former Anil Ambani group company, when it placed an all-cash bid of ₹9,800 crore through a group firm — IndusInd International Holdings (IIHL) — in April.

In a letter to IIHL, the administrator has sought the firm to submit a fresh application, along with the source of funds and the business plan which does not "contemplate the creation of pledges".

This followed a meeting the administrator had with the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (Irdai) on October 9. The regulator had stated that no application for change in control would be considered, if the source of the funds for the acquisition contemplates pledging of shares of RGIC and RNLIC.

Earlier in September, IIHL had sought Irdai's approval for the creation of a pledge over RGIC and RNLIC shares to raise funds. It had proposed to raise the debt against the assets of RCap, which primarilv includes the parent company's 100% stake in RGIC and 51% stake in RNLIC.

These two assets constitute more than 90% of RCap's value. IIHL had also sought a change in ownership of RGIC and RNLIC to raise the funds.

IIHL is also in talks with lenders such as JP Morgan, Barclays Bank, Brookfield,

Cerberus Capital, Apollo-USA and Oaktree-Singapore to raise $850 million to complete the resolution process.

In June this year, RCap lenders approved IIHL's resolution plan with 99.6% votes and the plan is currently pending before the NCLT's Mumbai bench for final approval. NCLT will hear the resolution plan for approval on October 25.

In July, RCap's administrator for the insolvency process filed the resolution plan submitted by the Hinduja Group before the NCLT for its approval. RCap has been in insolvency since November 29, 2021, when the RBI superseded its board.

RAJESH KURUP Mumbai, October 15

JSW SPORTS, THE sports arm of Sajjan Jindal-led JSW Group, has ventured into the business of negotiating brand endorsement deals for Asian Games' athletes that the firm currently trains. At the recently concluded Asian Games, JSW Sports supported 31 athletes, who won 17 medals out of India's total medal tally of 107.

"We are currently evaluating various deals ranging from ₹5 lakh to ₹5 crore depending on the stature of the individual athlete and the scope of the deal. These deals range from product support to influencer campaigns, content partnerships, brand endorsements and appearances," Divyanshu Singh, chief operating officer at JSW

Sports said. To begin with, JSW Sports has closed four large endorsement deals for javelin thrower Neeraj Chopra with an annual endorsement of ₹4-5 crore.

"One of the biggest challenges with the marketability of Olympic athletes and sports in India has been the lack of awareness. Hence, we work closely with brands to give a marketing push to these athletes who deserve a lot more for their contribution to Indian sport and nation building," he added.

Further, the firm would work with athletes including Sakshi Malik (freestyle wrestler), Murali Sreeshankar (long jumper), Jemimah Rodrigues (cricketer) and Linthoi Chanambam (judo) among others.

JSW Sports has helped Neeraj Chopra bag advertising contracts from brands such as Under Armour, Gillette, Noise Lifestyle Tech, Tata AIA, Swiss Tourism and Limca Sports. Firms such as Puma, Toyota (global brand deal), Limca Sportz have signed deals with Sreeshankar Murali, and that for Jemima Rodrigues include Hyundai, Nike and Crocs footwear.

Ceat, Google, Nike and Hyundai have been roped in for Shafali Verma (cricket), he said, adding, there were interests for brand endorsements from sports apparel, nutribronze medalists including Preeti Sai Pawar (boxing), Vithya Ramraj (400 metre hurdles) and Praveen Chithravel (triple jump) were other athletes supported by the firm.

Turning cynics into supporters

SANDIP G October 15

IT WAS JUST after the ninth over, shortly after Rohit Sharma had smeared Haris Rauf for a pair of sixes, that the edges of a wondrous night in Ahmedabad began to sharpen a little and the destiny of the game assumed crystal clarity. The fate of a crushing India win seemed unchangeable—notweakortactic could alter it—for such was the domination India wielded. So much so that not a nerve of anxiety was shed in the ocean of blue the stands was. Pakistan looked shattered, tired of running into dead ends filled with blue shirts.

In three matches of this World Cup, India have blown their opponents away with a streak of ruthlessness reminiscent of Ricky Ponting's Australia that claimed back-to-back titles. But the most fascinating aspect of their game is not merely winning or dominating, but the assimilations of skills and styles that have punctuated their victories. Watching India, thus, is a vivid and fulfilling experience, a slice of the country's own twinkling diversity. A confluence of varied and distinct cultures tessellating to construct something magnificent and immortal. To get a gist of the variety that makes India, you need not hop into a train that connects Kashmir to Kanvakumari, or taste the wondrous cuisines en route. But just tune into a cricket game of theirs. The experience is both enlightening and educational, in a cricketing sense. It's a team that you would pay to watch, you would bunk office hours, you would lie to your boss or spouse or parent for, you would ensure that you would not miss a ball. The team could convert the cynics into supporters, the doubters to faithful.It could make you fall in love with the game; make you a cricket-addict even. To watch them is to be lost in a beautiful world. Like a great piece of literature or music, you could pick from anywhere and be mar-

magician's wand in soft, rhythmic movements. But the pull still is his most charming, because pull is designed not to charm but to terrorize bowlers. It's the slap on your face that's more insulting than the more painful punch on your nose. Afridi copped the insult when Sharma pulled Pakistan's most fearsome over fine leg. Such strokes instill a sense of despair among the opponents. You could see the last fume of hope

Sharma took a single and made way for the man the crowd had come to watch the most. There could be a stellar star-cast in this team, but one star is more glittering than the others. That is Virat Kohli. He, like Gill, did not last too long, but in his time in the middle, he thrilled the crowd with his cover-driving. After he responded with a full ball, angling in from around the stumps. Kohli just strode forward, majestically and emphatically and drove him through the covers. He struck the pose in his follow-through that ten thousand cameras would have absorbed to treasure forever. A slice of batting divinity. Such a top-heavy line-up could obscure the batsman-ship of Shreyas Iyer and KLRahul. But they are unique in their own ways; they have their own specialities. Few batsmen step out to spinners in the old-fashioned way of Shreyas Iyer. Who cuts a spinning ball as delicately or clinically as KL Rahul? And for sheer power and bluster, when the need arrives, you have Hardik Pandya. Then in case if you had missed India's chases, the setting up for targets by the bowlers would be fulfilling enough. The depth of their skills seems bottomless. The Ahmedabad surface did not offer much movement for seamers; there was not much turn for the spinners either. But they somehow coerced the surface into friendship. Mohammed Siraj produced two cross-seam beauties—one that landed on the leather part that skidded on and one that landed on the seam that stopped and held the line to define the match. Jasprit Bumrah, the ustaad of Indian bowlers' deathly qawwali, has been hitting notes that only he could hit. His ways to wicket are several—he Mohammed Rizwan with a dreamy off-cutter, he castled Shadab Khan with a standard ball that straightened off the seam. The ball before had landed at the exact spot and ducked into Shadab. Bumrah's deception has many layers and faces.

As does those of Ravindra Jadeja and Kuldeep Yadav. Jadeja reaped doubts in batters' minds with the first ball he bowled. It pitched on off-stump and kicked away past Rizwan's blade. The surface offered no substantial turn, but in the batsmen's mind the ball was ripping and turning.Kuldeep is half a decade into the game, his mystery has worn off, but still he confounds and confuses batsmen. He did not produce outrageous turn on Saturday, but just enough, allied with impeccable control, to bargain wickets. What of the benchcast—Mohammed Shami, Ravi Ashwin, Suryakumar Yadav and Ishan Kishan. All could run a show of their own. That is the incredible wealth of this team, one that makes them the outright favourites to kiss the trophy. Whether they are crowned winners or not, whether their domination withers or not, they are in an unputdownable proposition, the assimilation of skills is as diverse as the game has ever seen. India's performance has been a sort of cricketing perfection. One you would readily pay to watch.

मानवाधिकार : आइओसी ने ओलंपिक चार्टर में संशोधन किया

मुंबई, 15 अक्तूबर (भाषा)।

अंतरराष्ट्रीय ओलंपिक समिति (आइओसी) ने रविवार को यहां अपने 141वें सत्र के पहले दिन अपनी मानवाधिकार प्रतिबद्धताओं को मजबूत करने के लिए ओलंपिक चार्टर में संशोधन किया।

इस साल सितंबर में कार्यकारी बोर्ड द्वारा इस आशय की सिफारिश करने के बाद आइओसी सत्र ने मानवाधिकारों के सम्मान से संबंधित अतिरिक्त शब्दों को

'ओलंपिक चार्टर में इस बदलाव के साथ, हम अपने हितधारकों को एक मजबूत सदेश भी भेज रहे हैं।'

शामिल करने को मंजुरी दे दी। आइओसी ने कहा, 'मानव अधिकारों के सम्मान के लिए एक व्यापक प्रतिबद्धता के रूप में 'ओलंपिज्म (ओलंपिकवाद)' के मौलिक सिद्धांतों में अतिरिक्त शब्दों को शामिल किया गया है। यह बदलाव विशेष रूप से ओलंपिज्म एक और चार के मौलिक सिद्धांतों में किया गया है।' इसमें कहा गया है, 'यह बदलाव कानूनी मामलों के आयोग और मानवाधिकार सलाहकार समिति के साथ उसके परामर्श का परिणाम है।'

ओलंपिज्म के मौलिक सिद्धांत जिन नए शब्दों को शामिल किया गया है वह 'अंतरराष्ट्रीय स्तर पर मान्यता प्राप्त मानवाधिकार' और 'ओलंपिक आंदोलन के दायरे में' हैं। आइओसी के अध्यक्ष थॉमस बाख ने कहा, 'ओलंपिक आंदोलन में मानवाधिकारों के सम्मान के प्रति हमारी प्रतिबद्धता में यह एक बड़ा कदम है।' 'ओलंपिक चार्टर में इस बदलाव के साथ, हम अपने हितधारकों को एक मजबूत संदेश भी भेज रहे हैं। यह आइओसी के मानवाधिकार कार्य में एक महत्वपूर्ण मील का पत्थर है।'

पिछड़े वर्ग से कांग्रेस को सबसे अधिक

जनसत्ता ब्यूरो नई दिल्ली, 15 अक्तूबर।

पहले नवरात्र के शुभ मुहूर्त पर कांग्रेस ने अपने विधानसभा चेहरों का एलान किया है। इस सूची को समय-दिन के मुहूर्त को देखकर जारी किया है। केवल मध्य प्रदेश के आंकडे देखे जाएं, तो पार्टी ने सबसे अधिक पिछड़े वर्ग (एसी, एसटी और ओबीसी) समुदाय से उम्मीदवार उतारे हैं। सूची में इस वर्ग से कुल 108 नेताओं के

ताजा जातिगत समीकरण के आधार पर यह आकलन सामने आया है। बताया जा रहा है कि 65 ऐसे उम्मीदवार हैं, जो पचास वर्ष से कम की आयु के हैं। मध्य प्रदेश की सूची में सामान्य वर्ग से 47, अन्य पिछड़ा जाति (ओबीसी) 39, अनुसूचित जाति से 22 अनुसूचित जनजाति (एसटी) 30 उम्मीदवारों को मैदान में उतारा है। जबकि मुस्लिम समुदाय से एक और जैन समुदाय के पांच उम्मीदवार इस बार अपना भाग्य आजमाने के लिए चुनाव मैदान में होंगे।

इस सूची में एक और रोचक समीकरण यह है कि पार्टी ने ऐसे नेता जो कि दूसरे

वर्ष 2018 में कांग्रेस ने 230 सदस्यीय विधानसभा में 114 सीट जीती थीं। भाजपा को 109 सीट मिली थीं। सपा, बसपा और निर्दलीय विधायकों के समर्थन से कमलनाथ के नेतृत्व में कांग्रेस ने गठबंधन सरकार

कांग्रेस पार्टी ने इस बार गोटोगांव से शेखर चौधरी को अपना उम्मीदवार बनाया है। मुख्यमंत्री शिवराज सिंह चौहान की विधानसभा सीट बुधनी से कांग्रेस पार्टी ने नया प्रयोग करते हुए विक्रम मस्तान को अपना उम्मीदवार बनाया है। इस सूची में कांग्रेस ने बड़ी संख्या में क्षत्रिय और ब्राह्मण उम्मीदवारों का भी भाग्य आजमाने का मौका दिया है। इनमें कई ऐसे चेहरे भी शामिल है, जो
