

McDonald's India Introduces Contactless Take-Out Service For Customers

The service has been launched in select cities in West and South India to provide safe, hygienic and convenient food to customers

Mumbai, 26th May 2020: As India looks at phased recovery from the COVID-19 led lockdowns, Westlife Development, the company that owns and operates McDonald's restaurants in West and South India has launched Contactless Take-Out service in select cities, in compliance with local Government regulations. This move is aimed at providing a safe, hygienic, and convenient food take-out option to customers who step out of their homes to avail of essential services. As a part of this service, customers can place their take-out orders from their preferred restaurant (i.e. store) location on the McDelivery app, pay online and pick up the order from the restaurant take-out counters on their way home or on their way to work. The entire process of placing and collecting the order is completely safe, contactless, and ensures adequate social distancing every step of the way.

How can you avail of the Contactless Take-Out service McDonald's India (West and South):

- Open the McDelivery app and select the 'Take-out' option
- Select your preferred store to place your order
- Order your meal and pay online
- Collect your order at the store's take-out point in a safe and contactless manner

Speaking on the announcement, Smita Jatia, Director, Westlife Development, said, "Our customers' safety has been and will continue to be our top priority. Through the launch of this contactless take-out service, we are giving our customers a convenient way of getting safe and hygienic food when they step out to get essentials. In the view of the current situation, we have not only strengthened the safety and hygiene processes across our operations but have also ensured that equally stringent processes are being followed by our partners including suppliers and delivery aggregators."

McDonald's in West and South India is known for its stringent safety and hygiene processes and the company is not leaving any stone unturned in ensuring even more rigorous measures for hygiene during this health crisis. The company was one of the first QSR brands to introduce contactless delivery, and today is delivering out of more than 150 delivery hubs.
