Fresh polls in Israel as Netanyahu fails to form coalition

Jerusalem, Israel will hold new national elections later this year after Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu failed to meet a midnight deadline to form a coalition government from the parties elected to Parliament in April.

It is the first time in Israel's history that a general election has failed to produce a government.

Israeli lawmakers voted to dissolve Parliament after Netanyahu missed the deadline on Wednesday night. Now, the country will hold an election once again, just seven weeks after the previous one, Haaretz reported.

Israelis will return to the polls on September 17, two weeks before Netanyahu's pre-announcement hearing on a series of corruption charges against him on October 2 and 3.

Netanyahu entered negotiations to form a coalition government after his Likud Party won 35 of the Knesset's 120 seats in the April 9 election, setting him up for a fifth term in office.

But he clashed with former Defence Minister Avigdor Lieberman, whose support in the talks became

New Zealand releases first Wellbeing Budget

Wellington, The New Zealand government on Thursday released the highly anticipated Wellbeing Budget with a record NZ$19 billion mental health care package at the forefront.

It is the country's first annual budget focused on wellbeing and is also the first by a Western country to be designed to measure living standards alongside traditional economic indicators, reports Efe news.

The government also produced a child poverty report as part of the budget for the first time.

In the election that led to the formation of this government, New Zealanders were asking a core question: If we have declared success because we have a relatively high rate of GDP growth, why are the things that we value going backwards like child wellbeing, a warm, dry home for all, mental health services or rivers and lakes that we can swim in? Finance Minister Grant Robertson asked in Parliament during the announcement.

The five-year mental health budget includes a programme for frontline services and in suicide prevention.

The budget also addresses sexual and family violence with a package, including crisis support and providing victims of sexual violence with alternative methods of giving evidence to reduce further trauma.

Robertson said there "has never before been investment of this scale" for these services.

The budget will also help the agriculture sector meet climate change targets, including capital funding for science and research on climate change and new technologies.

The budget was slammed by the opposition, with National Party leader Simon Bridges calling it a "botched" showing "style over substance".

"This is not a wellbeing budget. Most New Zealanders will be left asking themselves what's in for them," he said. —IANS

Body shaming leads to more weight gain in kids

New York, Teasing and bullying overweight children could act as a catalyst in further increasing their weight by 33 per cent, compared to obese kids who do not suffer body shaming, a study suggests.

The findings, published in the journal Pediatric Obesity, appear to contradict the belief that such teasing might motivate youth to change their behaviour and attempt to lose weight.

The study involved over 100 youths who were an average of 11.8 years of age when they enrolled, according to Natasha A. Schvey, Assistant Professor at the Uniformed Services University in the US.

The other overweight (defined as a body mass index above the 85th percentile) when they began the study or had two parents who were overweight or obese.

For the study, they completed a six-item questionnaire on whether they had been teased about their weight. They then participated in annual follow-up visits for the next 15 years.

Sore Trinamool breaks tubewells, snaps water lines where it lost: BJP

Kolkata, The BJP has accused West Bengal's ruling Trinamool Congress of breaking tubewells and snapping water lines in three localities of West Burdwan and Birbhum districts soon after the Lok Sabha poll results.

Acting like sore losers the Trinamool Congress cadres have tried to teach a lesson to the locals who had voted for the saffron outfit.

According to the Bharatiya Janata Party leadership in Kalua gram panchayat, the tubewells were damaged after they got more votes in the Kanakpur polling booth of Birbhum Lok Sabha constituency.

"All tubewells in the village have been damaged, because BJP has done well," said local BJP worker Laltu Mondal. In protest, the villagers gheraoed the house of local panchayat member of the Trinamool, Fanchan Das.

Das denied his party's hand in damaging the tubewells, but promised to repair them.

"Nobody can say that Trinamool, or a panchayat member, or some other local club has done all this, BJP has to put the blame on us," he said. The tubewells were later repaired.

A similar incident happened in the P. P. of Badina village under Rampurhat block. BJP workers alleged that Trinamool workers broke five-six tubewells after saffron outfit's candidate Dui Kumar Mondal took lead in the area.

"Since BJP had got more votes, the ruling party workers damaged five-six tubewells and snapped drinking water lines," said local BJP worker Durjodhan Mondal.

Trinamool member of Badha panchayat Shyamli Mondal said she was not aware who the culprits were.

However, the plumbers were called in and the tubewells, as also the water lines, repaired. A third such incident was reported from ward number 30 of Durgapur municipal corporation under West Burdwan district. Locals found 10 public taps, from which water is supplied at specific timings daily, had been damaged, sources said.

The development triggered tension, leading to a political blame game between the BJP and the Trinamool. BJP candidate S.S. Ahluwalia has won the Burdwan-Durgapur Lok Sabha constituency seat.

Apple's new website to tell people how App Store works

San Francisco, In order to execute better defence against recent anti-trust and anti-competitive allegations, Apple has launched a new website for the App Store, explaining how apps and updates are reviewed and examined by "hundreds of human experts" and automated systems "before they are rolled out."

The new website would detail the running of the App Store, along with how apps are developed and reviewed and what kind of work models do developers resort to, TechCrunch reported on Wednesday.

"We use a combination of automated systems and hundreds of human experts. This team represents 81 languages across three time zones," the iPhone-maker wrote in a post explaining the website.

According to Apple, over 1.4 million apps have been removed from the App Store since 2016 because either they were not updated or did not work on the most current iOS version.

In addition, the website features a section entitled "A Store that welcomes competition" that the iPhone-maker intends to work as a marketplace where its own apps live alongside third-party apps.

Earlier this year, music streaming major Spotify alleged the Apple requires it and other digital services to pay a 30 per cent tax on purchases made through Apple's payment system, including upgrading from a free to premium subscription. Spotify said this tax would force it to artificially inflate the price of its premium membership well above the price of Apple Music.

However, the company says 84 per cent of apps on iOS are free and developers pay nothing to Apple.

The new App Store website has been launched ahead of Apple's WorldWide Developers Conference (WWDC) that is scheduled to be held from June 3 to June 7 at the McEnery Convention Center in San Jose. —IANS
