Cong to release UP manifesto six months before polls

SUDHIR KAUWAR

September | September

The Congress will release its Uttar Pradesh manifesto six months before the assembly elections, and has decided to focus its campaign on the issue of health and education, saying people the party will reach in villages and towns will never forget the services provided by the ruling BJP government to various sections of society.

According to senior party leaders, the Congress manifesto will highlight several key points, including the need for a new constitution that addresses the needs of society, as many mass organizations have argued for changes in the process.

The government in power has failed to address the concerns of the people and the world, party leaders said.

The party has decided to release the manifesto in six months to ensure that the message reaches every section of society and every part of the state.
