Steel ministry wants free movement of alloy inputs

As many as 20 companies, mostly sugar distilleries, have applied for permission of licences to manufacture hand sanitizers daily.

Steel minister Dharmendra Pradhan has written to state governments about the issue of un-restricted or semi-restricted movement of trucks between states to ensure smooth movement of raw materials.

"This (letter) is reference to carrying raw materials and finished products to and from such plants," the minister wrote.

The government has recently passed a resolution to allow unrestricted movement of trucks between states to ensure the supply chain continues to function.

The steel ministry has urged state governments to issue suitable instructions to allow unrestricted or semirestricted movement of trucks between states to ensure the supply chain continues to function.
